VON HINDENBURG MISSES BY HAIRS-BREADTH.

A striking picture during tense moments aboard the s.s. Venezia on Saturday, showing the passengers being transferred to the s.s. Chuen Chow, which was splendidly manoeuvred alongside. In the foreground is one of the Chinese injured, lying on the deck. Another picture will be found on Page Seven.

Kreuger Suicide. SHOCK TO WORLD OF FINANCE.

Reaction Difficult to Foresee.

London, Mar. 13.
The suicide in Paris of Mr. Ivar Kreuger, the Swedish multi-millionaire Match King is a matter of vital concern to financial markets all over the world.

Stockholm is, however, maintaining a stoical calm. The banks and the commercial houses will all be opened to-morrow (Monday) though the Stock Exchange will be closed down and Parliament in meeting at midnight to grant the moratorium recommended by the Premier in order to prevent a panic from developing.

It is impossible yet to foresee the financial reaction in France, U.S. and Germany.

Kreuger shares have been freely taken up in the French market and a further batch of over thirty thousand franc debentures were to have been offered to-morrow.

It is expected that the United States and Germany will feel the financial shock more than other countries.

Kreuger's anxiety regarding the result of the German election was revealed in private conversations with banks in New York according to the Herald-Tribune. The journal says that he had made up his mind that Hitler was going to win, which he considered to mean a prolongation of the Central European crisis.

British Statement.
The British Match Corporation, holding the ordinary share capital of Messrs. Bryant and May, is not affected by the Kreuger financial operations despite the fact that the Swedish millionaire was a director, according to Sir Arthur Stanley, chairman of the Corporation board.

Later.
Both the Upper and Lower Chambers have passed the Kreuger Moratorium measure.

DOLLAR SLIGHTLY RISES.

SILVER NOW RATHER STEADY.

With silver slightly up both in London and New York the Hongkong dollar has appreciated 1/8th to-day, the rate both T.T. and demand being 1s. 4d.

Silver rose 1/8th spot and 1/16th forward in London, China and the Continent bought, and America sold, the market being quietly steady.

In New York silver advanced 1/8th, the market being steady. The cross-rate has slightly improved.

Finally the market is quite steady, but very little business is passing.

CAPTAIN THANKS PASSENGERS.

INVALUABLE AID IN COLLISION.

With extensive damage as a consequence of her collision with the s.s. Sul Tai, the Venezia is now at the Cosmopolitan Dock, where she is being dry-docked for repair. It might be imagined, from her appearance, that she could hardly have remained afloat after the damage she received, but fortunately the bulkheads held.

Captain F. T. Fisher, the master of the Venezia, seen by a Telegraph representative this morning, expressed the highest admiration for the conduct of the first-class passengers after the mishap. Their behaviour and the assistance they rendered was, said the Captain, beyond all praise. They kept their heads, helped to get the boats clear, and generally assisted during a time of great anxiety. "They were a great help to me," said Captain Fisher, "and I should like to express my thanks for all they did."

The following message has been received from the Admiralty:—It has been decided to announce by the First Lord in the House of Commons that when the Atlantic Fleet passes Ushant on its return home from the present spring cruise its name is to be changed to Home Fleet. The change will actually take effect from 1200 12th March.

OFFICIAL STAND ON NUDISM.

NO DECISION YET CALLED FOR.

The Government has not defined its attitude as yet regarding the Hongkong Nudist movement, a Telegraph representative was informed by an official at the Colonial Secretary's Office this morning.

No application for the renting of a beach for the use of Nudists has been received by the Government, and until this step has been taken the authorities cannot indicate their attitude regarding the possibility of allowing the Society the use of a beach.

Mr. H. E. Lanepart, President of the Society, when seen later, was, however, very hopeful that the Government would lend a sympathetic ear to their request.

Island Seclusion.

The Superintendent of Crown Lands had already been interviewed and according to Mr. Lanepart had expressed the personal view that there seemed no reason why the authorities should not accede to the Society's desires. There were, this official informed Mr. Lanepart, numerous stretches of beach on Lantau. (Continued on Page 7.)

HITLER POLLS OVER 11 MILLIONS.

GERMAN PRESIDENTIAL ELECTIONS.

EXCITEMENT AS VOTES ARE COUNTED.

Berlin, Mar. 13.
IN WHAT WAS PROBABLY GERMANY'S MOST EXCITING ELECTION IN HISTORY, PRESIDENT HINDENBURG TO-DAY FAILED TO OBTAIN RE-ELECTION BY THE VERY NARROW MARGIN OF ONE PER CENT. THOUGH HE POLLED OVER SEVEN MILLION VOTES MORE THAN HITLER.

A second ballot will be taken a month hence, on April 10, when there will be a straight fight between Hitler and Hindenburg.

The polling booths all over Germany were crowded with masses of voters from an early hour and it is believed that an average of 83 per cent. of the eligibles recorded their votes.

The polls closed at 6 p.m. and up to that time there had been no serious disturbances, except one clash between Nazis and Communists at Remscheid, in which three Communists were killed and three Nazis were arrested. Three hundred arrests were made in Berlin for minor offences.

At 9.15 p.m. when the first five million votes had been counted, it appeared quite possible that Hindenburg would secure an absolute majority. He had obtained 2,300,000 votes and appeared to be easily winning the towns, though Hitler had obtained advantages in some of the rural districts.

Thaelmann, the Communist candidate did not appear to be making much headway while Winter was scarcely in the picture.

RHINELAND LOYAL.

Hindenburg was scoring heavily in the Rhineland, but the personal affection for the aged President did not prevent the inhabitants of Dietramszell, where he spends a shooting holiday every year, from dropping back from his former dominant position, being a shade behind an absolute majority, with the odds against his getting in without the necessity for a further ballot.

PROVISIONAL FINAL FIGURES.

Berlin, Mar. 14.
The provisional official result of the presidential election is as follows:

Hindenburg	18,418,983
Hitler	11,144,541
Thaelmann	4,924,966
Duesterburg	2,497,860
Winter	109,292

President Hindenburg failed to obtain his absolute majority by a margin of 257,666 votes and a second ballot will take place on April 10.—Reuter.

Excitement is running high in Cologne, and there have been sporadic disturbances at various centres. Serious trouble is not expected, at least until the result is known. Meanwhile an anxious atmosphere prevails in the streets, Nazis and Communists, flitting from shadow to shadow, furiously lynching each other and ready for any eventualities.

When three-quarters of the votes had been counted, President Hindenburg had polled 11,144,541 votes.

COLOGNE TENSION.

Excitement is running high in Cologne, and there have been sporadic disturbances at various centres. Serious trouble is not expected, at least until the result is known. Meanwhile an anxious atmosphere prevails in the streets, Nazis and Communists, flitting from shadow to shadow, furiously lynching each other and ready for any eventualities.

PRAYERS IN COLOGNE.

Many thousand Catholics in Cologne prayed all night long for the success of the Protestant, President Hindenburg (despite the fact that Herr Hitler is a Catholic).

The unprecedented rush of women to the poll was the outstanding feature of the elections in the Rhineland. Thousands of Catholic women were seen at the polls.

Hindenburg.

TO END "DOG FIGHT."

M. TARDIEU'S PLAN FOR CENTRAL EUROPE.

London, Mar. 13.
A wide measure of Anglo-French co-operation in the matter of the economic situation in Central and Danubian Europe, with the two-fold object of appeasing political rivalries and expediting the economic reconstruction of Europe, was agreed between Sir John Simon and M. Tardieu after a conversation at the Quai D'Orsay yesterday. An agreed statement was subsequently issued.

M. Tardieu's proposals are understood to include suggestions that the Governments of Austria, Czechoslovakia, Hungary, Rumania, and Yugoslavia should assist in the practical application of the formula adopted.—Reuter.

ALLEGED OGPU OUTRAGE.

MURDERS IN MANCHURIA.

Harbin, Mar. 14.
Three young Russian terrorists at Podgrachnaya shot and killed a switchman named Tupchy at his home on the evening of March 9.

During the attack, Tupchy's daughter was seriously wounded in the right leg.

Tupchy was a friend of Krupenik, who was murdered on February 28 near Dalmagou.

It is widely believed that both murders were instigated by the O. G. P. U., the Soviet secret police.—Reuter.

STOP PRESS.

Berlin, Mar. 14.
The outstanding feature of the election is that although Hindenburg missed by a hairs-breadth, he is certain of a decisive victory in the second ballot, when only a bare majority will be needed.

Hindenburg's magnificent fight against the boisterous Nazi campaign has astonished even his most optimistic supporters, especially in Bavaria, where the veteran Field-Marshal swept the board, obtaining from two to three times as many votes as the candidate Hitlerites.

The unprecedented rush of women to the poll was the outstanding feature of the elections in the Rhineland. Thousands of Catholic women were seen at the polls.

HOPE WAXING.

Meanwhile police continue a vigorous following-up of all clues though hope is waxing among those closest to the case and Col. and Mrs. Lindbergh are being kept in seclusion behind a barrier of police guards about their estate.

Thousands of letters, many fantastic and others giving promise of contact with the kidnappers or those acquainted with their movements continue to be received. Several have purported to set terms for return of the child, asking various sums, but the authorities are inclined to believe that none of these actually comes from the kidnappers although every effort is made to trace each note.

While New York "mucksters" leaders, to whom Colonel Lindbergh made personal appeal, have professed the greatest desire to cooperate for return of the child, they simultaneously declare they have no information.

Police are disposed to believe their account and to feel that the kidnapping was done by some person or persons outside the realm of regular espionage. Chief fear now centres around the possibility that the kidnapper, terrified by the nation-wide hunt and very much alarmed, killed the child in an effort to escape everything in the way of a search for his whereabouts.

HOPES DASHED IN LINDBERGH AFFAIR.

BABY REPORTED FOUND.

PROVES WRONG CHILD.

CLUES FAIL ONE BY ONE.

New York, Mar. 13.

Worried to desperation by the failure of all efforts to obtain the restoration of their baby son, Colonel and Mrs. Lindbergh had to bear another terrible shock to-day when their hopes, raised to a high pitch by reports from Crossville, Tennessee, that the boy had been found, were again dashed to the ground.

The end of a day of conflicting rumours found the sensational case no nearer solution; in fact, the chances have been rendered a trifle more difficult by the abandonment of another police line of attack.

Early in the day, the sheriff of Crossville, Tennessee, issued a report to the effect that a baby had been found tallying completely with description of the Lindbergh baby, adding that the description had been confirmed by Colonel Lindbergh over the telephone and that four persons had been arrested and would be held until the arrival from Hopewell of someone to identify the baby.

REPORT DENIED.

Soon afterwards, however, the Hopewell police stated that there was no truth in the Crossville report.

The commander of the Police Department at Trenton, New Jersey, subsequently issued a statement that the baby detained at Crossville had no connexion with Lindbergh.

SAILOR SET FREE.

Meanwhile, Henry "Red" Johnson, a sailor and alleged sweetheart of Betty Gow, the nurse of the kidnapped infant, who was arrested during the week at West Hartford, has been released, exonerated from complicity in the kidnapping.

Public excitement had been stimulated by police claims that the detention of Johnson had resulted in the gleaming of "important information," and that they were certain he knew "plenty more."

It is understood that Johnson unwittingly disclosed details of the Lindbergh home to a person who might possibly have been responsible for the outrage. It was stated that he admitted sharing his knowledge with another person, whom he does not know.—Reuter.

Meanwhile police continue a vigorous following-up of all clues though hope is waxing among those closest to the case and Col. and Mrs. Lindbergh are being kept in seclusion behind a barrier of police guards about their estate.

RIVER BOATS IN COLLISION.

VENEZIA AND SUI TAI BADLY DAMAGED.

SOME FATALITIES.

Two Chinese seamen are reported to be missing, two Chinese passengers were killed, and several injured, as a result of a collision between the s.s. Venezia and the s.s. Sui Tai about 3.47 p.m. on Saturday near Namtau Island.

The collision occurred in a thick fog while the two vessels were travelling in opposite directions, the Venezia on her way to Macao and the Sui Tai to Hongkong.

First intimation received of the collision was in a wireless message to Hongkong from the Venezia on Saturday evening, stating that she had collided with the Sui Tai and was badly holed, and the passengers had been transferred to another Macao steamer, the s.s. Chuen Chow, which arrived at the scene of the collision a few minutes later.

Rumours spread like wild-fire, and it was rumoured at one time that the Venezia had sunk with all hands. The wharf of the Hongkong-Macao Steamboat Company, at Wing Lok Street, was soon besieged with a large crowd of Europeans, Chinese and Portuguese up to a fairly late hour, all waiting expectantly for the arrival of the Sui Tai, which usually comes into port about 6 p.m.

Up to a late hour, however, the Sui Tai had not yet been sighted, and the crowd gradually dispersed, to return again early in the morning, when the vessel put into port.

The tug Henry Keswick left about 8.30 p.m. on Saturday on receipt of a wireless from the Venezia asking for assistance. It reached the Venezia about 11 p.m., but owing to the heavy fog could not bring the boat in till yesterday afternoon. Owing to the nature of the accident, the Venezia had to be brought in stern first. The Henry Keswick was assisted by another tug, the Edith, in bringing the vessel into port.

Arrival of the Sui Tai.

The arrival of the s.s. Sui Tai yesterday was eagerly awaited by an anxious crowd, and the Hongkong-Macao Steamboat Company's Wharf presented a very animated scene in spite of the fact that it was raining and a chill wind was blowing. The vessel put into port about 8.30 a.m.

An examination revealed somewhat extensive damage to the bow, where the railing had been completely stripped off for about ten feet on each side. The lower part of the vessel was also damaged, about fifteen feet from the plimsoll line up to the ground plate. Repair on the vessel is estimated to take about six days.

It was learned that the Sui Tai had struck the Venezia on her port stern, and had then swung off making it impossible for it to turn round to the assistance of the Venezia, a proceeding which was fraught with danger owing to the thick fog and owing to the fact that the Sui Tai herself was in considerable danger from an inrush of water into her hold.

Breach Wedged Up.

Immediately after the collision, when the water began to come in, the crew of the Sui Tai, with wooden planks, poles, bales of cotton and cement wedged the breach, effectively preventing the inrush of water.

Luckily the s.s. Chuen Chow was close by, and rushed to the assistance of the Venezia and removed all her passengers. The shock of the collision was so violent that all on board were thrown off their feet. For some time panic reigned, and some even made a rush to don lifebelts, but they were soon quieted by the officers of the vessel. The anchor was immediately dropped and the vessel remained over the night in close proximity to the Chuen Chow.

A wireless message was sent out from the Sui Tai to the Venezia asking her if she wanted any help. An answer was received asking the Sui Tai to tow her to the beach as she was full of water, and wanted to transfer her passengers. The relative positions of the two vessels and the extreme fog, however, made it impossible for the Sui Tai to go to the help of the Venezia.

Blanket of Fog.

According to one informant, the collision was unavoidable. The fog was so thick that it was impossible to see any great distance in front, and though both vessels steered in different directions as soon as they had sighted each other, they were in too close proximity to avoid impact, which occurred about a minute later.

The Venezia carried quite a large number of people, among them being several European passengers, including the Hon. Mr. W. E. L. Shenton, Mr. R. H. Charles, Mr. L. W. Bush, the Hon. Mr. C. G. S. Mackie and Mrs. Mackie, Mrs. J. J. Patterson, and Messrs. G. H. Potts, P. M. Hodgson, A. M. L. Soares, H. H. Priestley, Parkson Chan, Li Shu-pang, W. T. Stanton, Seth, and other Hongkong and Shanghai jockeys, including Messrs. Y. S. Chang, Lo Yam-man and Ip Kuei-ying.

Among those on the Sui Tai were Mrs. Powell, Miss Morrison, Mr. Merriman, Mr. G. Owen, Mr. H. C. Roberts, Mr. A. Bammos, Mrs. A. J. de Jesus and Mr. Hudam.

Fine Rescue Work.

Splendid rescue work was immediately undertaken by Venezia passengers who manned lifeboats and got rafts ready in case of need. Prominent were the Hon. Mr. Shenton, Mr. Charles and Mr. Bush, who worked for three-quarters of an hour, cutting away the telescoped partitions with axes, thus releasing two Chinese men, saloon passengers, who were found to be seriously injured.

Killed and Injured.

Immediately after the collision, the Captain, Mr. Fisher, signalled to the Chuen Chow. The passengers were all then transferred, together with those persons who were injured in the collision. The Chuen Chow then proceeded to Macao.

It was found later that two Chinese seamen were missing, and it is presumed that they had been in the middle of the smash, and had been drowned. Two passengers were also killed, both Chinese, a Chinese lady saloon passenger and a man in the steerage.

After the passengers had been transferred, the Venezia drifted until she anchored.

The tug Henry Keswick reached Namtau Island about 11 p.m. the same night, but owing to the fog was not able to reach the Venezia until nearly 6 a.m. yesterday. No difficulty was presented in making fast line to the Venezia, for though the sea was a bit choppy there was no fog. It is estimated that repairs will take about two weeks.

Venezia's Arrival.

The Venezia presented a sorry sight when she was towed into port about 3.30 p.m. yesterday. On her port side there was a 25-foot rent from the stern, and a 15-foot wide gap from the promenade deck to the water line. The woodwork was reduced to splinters, and was all afloat, making it possible to see right through the vessel. The damage was situated at the termination of the first class cabins, and the sides of the cabin nearest the damage were also afloat. The inside furnishings being all damaged. An assortment of chairs and tables were among the wreckage, presenting a very disordered and confusing spectacle. Even the roofing of the vessel had not escaped damage, and it was noticed that the top seemed warped.

Being a lighter vessel than the Sui Tai, the Venezia suffered more and it is fortunate she has a watertight bulkhead between the fore hold and engine room space,

LATE MRS. W. F. F. FINCHER.

FUNERAL WELL ATTENDED.

The funeral of the late Mrs. W. F. Fincher took place at the Protestant Cemetery, Happy Valley, on Saturday evening, and was attended by a large gathering.

The cortege passed the monument about 5.30 p.m., and the hearse was covered with wreaths. The Rev. W. Walton Rogers officiated at the graveside, and among those present were Mr. W. F. Fincher (widower), Messrs. E. C. and E. F. Fincher (sons), Mr. and Mrs. F. C. Mow-fung, Miss Ruby Mow-fung, Mr. A. E. P. Guat (non-in-law), Mr. N. A. E. Mackay, Mr. J. Mackay, Miss E. Rogers, Miss M. Kacker, Rev. N. V. Halward, Mr. J. P. Robinson, Mr. F. Goodwin, Mr. D. O. de Silva, Mr. H. Ahwee, Mr. J. W. Baldwin, Mr. R. Baldwin, Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Decker, Mr. T. Bolt, Mr. F. Brett, Dr. F. Kew, Mr. C. W. L. Cole, Mr. and Mrs. G. Lee, Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Kew, Mrs. Woolley, Mr. L. Goldman, Mr. D. Trafford, Mr. C. S. Rossetti, Mr. H. Gilling, Mr. P. Maday, Miss D. Maday, Mr. J. C. Lynne, Mr. F. G. Horridge, Mr. and Mrs. T. Lay, Mr. D. S. Green, Mr. G. A. White, Mr. V. T. Low, Mr. R. Lee, Mrs. W. V. Rogers, Mr. S. J. Jex, Mr. G. W. R. Griggs and a host of others.

The Venezia is under the command of Captain Fisher, and has a crew of about 50 men. There are four other officers, the chief engineer being Mr. Luke Chess; chief officer Mr. Elholm; 2nd engineer Mr. A. T. Munday and purser, Mr. Chan.

On this trip she was carrying over 500 passengers, and it must be said to their credit that there was no actual panic following the collision.

The s.s. Venezia (ex Kingfisher) is a steel triple screw oil burning steamer. She was built in 1906 by W. Denny & Bros., Dumbarton, for service in the Adriatic, where she was used as a pleasure boat, plying between Trieste and Venice. She was bought by Chinese two or three years ago and was run as an excursion boat between Hongkong and Macao and Hongkong and Canton by the China New Era Shipping Co., Ltd. She flies the British flag and, since being put on service here, has been of Hongkong registry. She has a tonnage of 988 (847 net), and her dimensions are: Length 276.0; breadth 32.1; depth 10.2. She is, of course, fitted with wireless, and is a typical pleasure boat having two decks and a promenade deck 254 feet in length.

The Sui Tai is under the command of Captain Pritchard, and is owned by the Steamboat Company. In the early part of 1928 she was burned to the water's edge, after berthing at the Macao wharf. The passengers had, however, disembarked when the alarm was raised. She was rebuilt at the Kowloon Docks and was again put on the Macao run, and is now the most up-to-date vessel plying between Hongkong and Macao.

New Ferry Damaged.
The newly constructed ferry launch, Man Wal, which was plying between Yau-mat and Hongkong on Saturday morning crashed into the wharf on the Hongkong side at 11 a.m. and damaged its rudder. The

TRAGIC DEATH.

PORTUGUESE DIES WHILST PLAYING CARDS.

The death of Mr. Jose Sabino Gill, formerly of the Kowloon Post Office, occurred suddenly at 15, Hankow Road, on Saturday night when the deceased gentleman collapsed whilst playing cards and was found to be dead before he could be removed to Hospital.

Together with other members of the Portuguese Club at 15, Hankow Road, just behind the Star Theatre, the late Mr. Gill was playing cards on Saturday night and at about 11 p.m. he suddenly collapsed. A doctor was quickly summoned and the ambulance sent for but he died a few minutes later, before the arrival of the ambulance.

The deceased was formerly in charge of the Kowloon Post Office but retired after 30 years in Government Service, on account of his health and had resided at 49, Hankow Road. Born in 1870 the late Mr. Gill leaves a widow and family to mourn his death. Of late he had been suffering from heart disease and had been receiving treatment at the Kowloon Hospital.

There was a large attendance of friends at the funeral which took place at the Catholic Cemetery yesterday afternoon. The service was conducted by the Very Rev. Father Spada, Pro-Vicar Apostolic, Rector of Rosary Church, Kowloon.

Mrs. B. C. Wong.
It is with much regret that we have to record the death of Mrs. B. C. Wong, of Liguann Villa, Prince Edward Road, which took place on Saturday at the age of 41 years.

The deceased lady was the wife of Dr. B. C. Wong, a well-known local medical practitioner, to whom much sympathy will be extended in his bereavement.

The funeral took place yesterday afternoon at the Chinese Christian Cemetery, Kowloon.

THREE KINDS OF LOVE by KAY CLEVER STRAHAN

BEGIN HERE TODAY

Ann, Cecily and Mary Frances Fenwick live with their grandparents. The waters have been troubled since childhood. The grand-patients known as "Uncle" and "Grand" have long since lost their wealth and the household is supported by Ann's and Cecily's earnings. For this reason, Ann, Cecily and Philip Fenwick, now, however, are still supporting their marriage though they have been engaged a year.

Cecily, 22, is in love with Harry Melrose, an engineer, but when he proposes she refuses to name the wedding date because she cannot leave Ann with the financial responsibility of the home.

Mary Frances, 16, and still in school, strikes up an acquaintance with Earl Demont, stock company actor. She meets him secretly on several occasions. Mary Frances has led him to believe she is 18 years old. He tries to persuade her to become his partner in a vaudeville act.

Phil takes Ann to dinner and a girl she has never seen before sends him a note. Phil's explanation is vague. On the way home Phil stops the car to investigate some engine trouble. Letty King, who wrote the note, and Kenneth Smith, her escort, come along in another car. Letty addresses Phil with endearments and Ann, angry, sets in Smith's car and asks him to take her home. He tries to make a date for the next night but she refuses.

CHAPTER XXIX

In the morning, a sunny Sunday morning with robins and church bells, a messenger boy came to the Fenwicks' front door to deliver a letter. Ann went to the door and took the letter and read it in the hall and went back to her ironing in the kitchen.

Cecily, putting fresh papers on the cupboard shelves, asked, "What was it?"

"Nothing," Ann answered, and stizzled a damp finger against the iron, and pulled the cord loose for it to cool, "cept a note from Phil. I knew almost exactly what would be in it before I read it."

Cecily laughed. "Well, that's one way to say it. But it isn't what I'd say if Barry had sent me a note in the morning. You do take things for granted, don't you, angel? You know, I think it is wonderful, this devotion of Phil's for so long. Barry loves me—but I couldn't keep him as you've kept Phil. That is, I'm afraid I couldn't."

"Suppose you read my love letter," Ann said.

Cecily, amazed, refused to do anything of the sort, and upset a can of cinnamon.

"Do, please," Ann insisted. "It is funny. It's—too terribly funny. Read it, and I'll tell you about it later. I wanted to tell you, but I couldn't seem to get started. Barry couldn't read it. Dear Ann, if you care to telephone to me to explain, I shall be in my room until noon today. Yours, Phil."

"I'm?" Cecily questioned. "Cavender, sort of."

"It is simply too funny," said Ann, and laughed and laughed.

"It may be funny," Cecily objected—it seemed barely possible that Ann's laughter was hysterical.

"But it can't be as funny as all that. Tell me about it. You said you would."

Ann told, sparsely and with a lack of quotation that would have moved Mary Frances or any other gifted expositor to pity and to shame. "And now," she finished, and waved the sheet of paper, unfolded so that it lay flat, "now—this!" She began to laugh again.

"If I want to explain why he told me lies and why she called him 'darling sweetheart,' he'll listen to me at any time before noon today. Did he say 'a.m.'?" She consulted the note. "No. Well, he should have said 'a.m.'." She kept on laughing.

"But, Ann," Cecily's very voice was shocked, "don't you—care?"

"I must care," Ann seemed to be arguing with herself. "I must care—terribly. But it hasn't started in yet. I suppose it is—excitement or something. There's a hole, of course. When I woke this morning I fell in the hole. But now it feels more like the place left after an aching tooth has been extracted. It is—sort of empty but comfortable—if you understand?"

Cecily, in her first love affair, up in a rarefied atmosphere amid stars and rainbows and sky things at a height from which the earth below was indiscernible, could scarcely be expected to understand the comforts of holes. She said, "Hum-um," ambiguously, and eyed Ann and wondered as to the wisdom of attempting either advice or consolation.

Ann appeared to need neither. Ann seemed to be finding the full requirements of life in a hot iron and a nightshirt of Grand's. Ann was smiling a little, and amazingly beautiful in that yellow smock.

Rosalie, full rigged from church, came cruising into the room.

"Dear girls," she said, "I come bringing good news, and—"

Ann stopped ironing. Cecily turned from the shelves. Miss Lane was one—and the girls felt the most interested and important—of Mary Frances' teachers.

"Of course," Rosalie went on,

news or—the bad news."

Ann did not answer. Cecily suggested that the bad news might better be got over with first. She didn't believe that Rosalie had either good news or bad news, for that matter.

"Bring me a chair, will you, please, Cecily, darling? Ann, dear, could you reach and lower the shade just a trifle? Thank you, dear, so much. I was sorry that you girls missed church this morning. Dear Dr. Tureck gave us uplift for the entire week—stimulation—um—all that. I am sure I have never listened to a more marvelous discourse. I told him so. I believe one should. I think, however, that it is in the worst possible taste to wear diamonds in the House of the Lord."

"Did Dr. Tureck wear diamonds?" Cecily asked. "And is that the good news or the bad?"

Rosalie shook a playful finger at Cecily. "My dear! Indeed he did not. He has none to wear, I'm sure. That horribly overdressed, rather common Mrs. Waggoner glittered her hands about, unglowed, you may be certain, all during the service. To say nothing of her ears. Large red ears absolutely unsuitable for diamonds. It was most distracting. Grand spoke of it, too. She sat in front of us. We were discussing that very thing when Miss Lane caught up with us—"

Ann stopped ironing. Cecily turned from the shelves. Miss Lane was one—and the girls felt the most interested and important—of Mary Frances' teachers.

"Grand and I know that Miss Lane was—well, at least, overly pessimistic. These old maids, you know. One does hate to be censorious—particularly on Sunday—but Miss Lane—of course, never having married—"

"My dear! Have I worried you? I shouldn't have called it bad news—really. She began by asking after Mary Frances' health. And then she did go on to say that Mary Frances' school work of late had not been—well, entirely satisfactory."

"Did she say how it was unsatisfactory?" Cecily asked.

Ann questioned. "Was that all she had to say?"

"Practically all, yes. She talked rather long. We got so weary, so very weary, standing in the sun. She praised Mary Frances, you know—um—all that. Charming, really—or, rather, you understand, she tried to be, though of course she had no real personality of any sort. It is no wonder that she hasn't appealed to gentlemen, is it? She is so sort of—well, unwhimsical. Sort of—"

"Did she say Mary Frances' work had been unsatisfactory in her department only? Or did she know about the other departments?" Cecily insisted.

"Well, as to that, she did mention that she had talked with the other teachers. She said that until this term Mary Frances had been so unusually brilliant. She wondered about her health. Grand and I think it might be wise to take her out of school for a time."

Ann and Cecily spoke together, with one voice. "No, no, we'll not do that."

"We'll think it over, of course. We might allow her to finish this one term—it is only a month now, isn't it? And then we'll see whether her strength can be built up during the summer. And now for the good news. Mr. and Mrs. Carmichael have invited Grand and me to spend the first week in July with them in their beautiful new home at Seaside. They are going to have a small house party—to celebrate their wedding anniversary. Mrs. Carmichael's charming sister and her husband, Mr. and Mrs. Day—her name is Deborah—Deborah Day—Isn't that utterly quaint and delightful?—are also to be their guests. Our first thought was, as you may know, that we couldn't leave our little girls. We said as much, and frankly. But Mr. and Mrs. Carmichael were so charmingly insistent. They quite overpowered our every objection. As they said, we see so very little of you now, either of you since you both have your sweethearts—"

Cecily put a stop to that. "Of course you must go. It will be splendid for both of you. Won't it, Ann?"

Ann agreed as wholeheartedly as a person whose mind is fully occupied with two other subjects at the same time could be expected to agree.

"I fancy," Rosalie said, "that our Ann may be wondering how we are (Continued on Page 10.)"

EMPIRE TRADE.

F.M.S. TARIFF SCHEDULE PRAISED.

London, Mar. 12.
The Times, in an editorial, applauds the preferences on British goods in the new tariff schedule of the Federated Malay States as being helpful to the British trader affected and will be appreciated by this country as a welcome response to the changed British policy towards trade in the Colonial Empire.

The Times goes on to comment on the economic development of the scattered British Colonies and Protectorates, hitherto regarded with over much indifference by successive British Governments: therefore the National Government's recognition of their needs by the Import Duties Act exemptions is all the more welcome.

Preference to the Colonies and Protectorates is long overdue. All of them have hitherto been ready to help British trade in every way possible, an attitude now stimulated by the changed British tariff policy.—Reuter.

POST OFFICE NOTICE

Information has been received that the Siberian route is unobstructed and the service by this route will accordingly be resumed forthwith.

The Public are, however, warned that, as this Service is somewhat precarious and still liable to suspension without notice, letters will only be accepted at senders' risk. In the event of the service being again suspended all letters will be forwarded via Suez.

Letters and postcards for Europe and South America are forwarded "Via Siberia" if so superscribed. It is notified for the information of holders of Private Boxes at the General Post Office that on and after 1st February no boxed correspondence will be placed in the Boxes. A notification will be substituted and Box-holders are requested to call or send for the correspondence at the Box-holders' Lobby and there pay the amount of the Tax against the delivery of the letters or packets.

The Parcel Post Service to Shanghai and North China is fully resumed as from to-day.

PRISON MYSTERY.

The car, driven by Mr. Parker Ashwell, a Leicester auctioneer, with Mr. Lambert, a member of a Leicester motor firm, was passing the prison, when a piece of coal was thrown over the wall. It fell on the car, damaging the fabric.

Several other pieces followed and a woman and her daughter just escaped being struck.

CINEMA SCREENINGS.

NOTES SUPPLIED BY THE THEATRES.

It has been left to Twickenham Film Studios to give us the most convincing picture to date of the famous Holmes and Watson collaboration. "The Sleeping Cardinal" is not, of course, a Conan Doyle story, but a blending of two—"The Empty House" and "The Final Problem"—and a surprisingly good job has been made of the blending, for, with such old familiar friends as Professor Moriarty, Colonel Moran, Inspector Lestrade, and Mrs. Hudson, again in skilled and sustained association with Holmes and his devoted reader, a rattling good mystery-thriller has been made.

The main development in the story is only touched upon to introduce the sinister personality of Moriarty and to emphasize his terrifying menace. We see how Ronald Adair, card cheat, is threatened with exposure by the Moriarty gang if he will not convey to the "continuum" a number of forged notes. Sherlock Holmes is called in, and by a series of amusing yet convincing deductions, recognizes the hand of Moriarty, not the forged notes situation, but in the subsequent mysterious murder of Adair. Holmes is then in a delicate trap for the master criminal, who is finally caught and handed over to justice.

This skeleton frame of the narrative does not do justice to the variety of thrilling and dramatic situations which form the main development, all shrewdly interlarded with touches of light relief of the "elementary" my dear Watson order, or sly digs at the Scotland Yard mentality. Such important situations as the guilt of Adair, his trapping by Moriarty, and the latter's carefully concealed personality are particularly well done, while the final unmasking of the latter most infallibly creates a profound surprise except to those familiar with the original story.

No less entertaining is the excellent all-round characterization, which agreeably conforms to the Conan Doyle tradition. Arthur Wontner, for instance, gives an extremely realistic study of Sherlock Holmes, deviating only with interpolated touches of diverting whimsicality foreign to the nature of the most famous detective in fiction.

Ian Fleming, too, is delightfully wooden-headed as "My dear Watson," while Philip Howland and Minnie Bayner are both well in the picture as Lestrade and Mrs. Hudson respectively. A word should also go to Gordon Begg for his realistic character work in the small part of the butler; he is an admirable type, and sympathetically combines professional dignity with an austere, but friendly, Leslie Perrins and Louis Goodrich carry on the good work with creditable characterizations of Adair and Colonel Moran.

Leslie Hicott's direction is slick and workmanlike in its effective linking-up of clue and deduction, and his climax of the attack on Holmes is an adroit piece of suspenseful treatment. Technical merits, too, are on an excellent plane, settings, photography, and recording being further tribute to Twickenham resources.

"The Yellow Ticket."

What is the shortest road to screen fame? If you are one of the country's countless movie aspirants you have doubtless asked this question many times, of yourself, of your friends, and of the many people who profess to know the secrets of Hollywood.

Judging from the various producing companies' rosters of stars and featured players, the correct answer would seem to be the single. And the proof of this answer is again attested to by the histories of those players who make up the brilliant cast that enacts Raoul Walsh's Fox dramatic production, "The Yellow Ticket," showing at the King's Theatre to-day.

In the stellar role is the glamorous and exotic Elissa Landi of international renown. Miss Landi played her first professional role on the London stage and rose to stage fame in New York as well as in the English capital before going to Hollywood.

Lionel Barrymore, who plays the leading male role, is a member of Broadway's royal family and would still be playing leading parts on the New York stage had the films not made him more attractive and lucrative offer.

The third featured player, Laurence Olivier, created the role of Captain Stanhope in the London stage production of "Journey's End," which won him a role in the New York production of "Private Lives" and in turn a Hollywood contract. And the same thing applies to the other important players. Walter Byers Rita Lally, Sarah Padden and Misha Auer, all of whom gained the police, the dramatic talent and perfect direction demanded by the talking screen by years of experience in stock, vaudeville and on the legitimate stage.

"The Yellow Ticket," enacted against a background of mystery, intrigue, oppression and cruelty in a setting of pre-war Russia, details the tragic adventures of a beautiful and wholesome young peasant girl, who by circumstance becomes the possessor of a yellow ticket which brands her as social outcast, and the victim of the brutal and merciless head of the Czar's secret police. The story was adapted for the screen by Jules Furthman and Guy Bolton from Michael Morton's famous play and was directed by the man who gave the film such success as "What Price Glory," "The Cock Eyed World," "The Man Who Sings Back," "Sadie Thompson," "Raoul Walsh," "The Cheat."

"The Cheat," which is coming to the King's Theatre next Wednesday, Paramount's new modern dialogue edition of Hector Turnbull's famous story of silent days with Tallulah Bankhead and Irving Pichel in the roles originally done by Fanny Ward and Sessue Hayakawa, is a continuation of the type that will satisfy the most voracious type of excitement-cravers.

Miss Bankhead, who has made personal triumphs of her previous American photoplay opportunities, has a more dramatic and suspenseful story in "The Cheat" and her supporting cast is adequate to an exacting detail. George Abbott shows the same fine directorial quality of naturalness in allowing the characters to delineate the proper types, which was noteworthy in his "Secrets of a Secretary" and "My Sin."

The story is of a woman who allows a flirtation and gambling debt to draw her into an intrigue away from her husband when she balks on the brink of fulfilling a promise to a man of wealth whose code of honour has been perverted by life in the Orient. She is branded with the symbol this man uses to identify women of conquest. The injured lady shoots him, not mortally, and in consequence she and the husband, eager to shield her reputation, are compelled to air the entire affair publicly in court.

Harvey Stephens, Ann Andrews, Robert Stranoe, Jay Esselt, William Ingersoll and Hanaki Yoshiwara have supporting roles.

"Age for Love"

Only two days remain in which to see Howard Hughes' brilliant and sensational production, "The Age for Love," at the Central Theatre. The capacity crowds which have attended this picture is proof of its amazing entertainment features.

Not since "Hell's Angels" and "The Front Page" other Howard Hughes productions, have local movie-goers been so thrilled and amused. "The Age for Love" packs a punch in every scene, and is packing them in the theatre at every performance.

It discloses a new Billie Dove, showing the great beauty of the screen in the most superb performance of her career. It introduces a new and dynamic leading man, Charles Starrett, and it presents Edward Everett Horton, Lois Wilson and Mary Duncan in their greatest film roles.

Frank Lloyd, prize-winning director, was responsible for the direction of "The Age for Love" an ultra-modern romantic-drama, based on Ernest Pasmali's widely-read novel, and Robert E. Sherwood, noted playwright and film critic, wrote the dialogue. It's a United Artists picture.

WOMEN'S WORLD
FOR OUR LADY READERS.

BEAUTY ON THE RIVER.

The beautiful blue Danube is something more than a favourite waltz tune to Countess Mary Radetzky. It's a river to row on! The Countess, shown here in rowing attire, is stroke of the champion crew of the Viennese Women's Rowing Club. She is a great-granddaughter of famous Field Marshal Radetzky.

NEW LINGERIE.

Now Cut on the Cross.

Straight goods are scorned by the Paris lingerie-makers. All the new smart lingerie is cut on the cross. There is a reason. Garments cut on the cross are slenderizing and a blessing to the stout.

Frenchwomen prefer their lingerie in crepe-de-Chine, washing silk, and pure white linen.

They do not like much lace trimming, preferring hem-stitching, tucks, and a little embroidery. Ninety per cent. of them choose either palest pink or white for their undergarments. A famous maker of lingerie in Paris says his clients prefer white, that pale pink in second, and pale blue third.

This season many of the new necklaces and bracelets serve a double purpose. As well as being an entirely original ornament, they take the place of white collars and cuffs, with the all-popular black and white ensemble.

A fringed necklace or innumerable four-inch strings of tiny white beads, made so that the bottom of the fringe just reaches the edges of the "V" decolletage produces a white-collared effect.

Apart from the white "lingerie," jewelry, steel seems all-conquering as far as necklaces are concerned. The variations of steel rings are really innumerable. They range from what look like the works of an alarm clock to heavy, triangular Cubist designs.

The scarlet and steel necklaces and bracelets are very attractive, although the black and steel versions look even smarter. A lapis lazuli blue variety is much in evidence. At the moment lapis lazuli beads of every sort are so much seen in Paris that it is to be feared the fashion for these will be killed by too much attention.

TO-DAY'S RECIPES.

Make It with Chocolate.

Dishes made with chocolate are a pleasant variation in the menu.

Chocolate Trifle: Make a custard with a pint of milk, two eggs, two ounces of cocoa and 12 lumps of sugar. Spread some sponge cakes with jam, moisten with syrup flavoured with sherry, and pour over the custard. Decorate with whipped cream and chopped pistachio nuts, or use split blanched almonds.

Chocolate Creams: Heat a pint of milk in a double saucepan, sweeten with 11 lumps of sugar and flavour with vanilla. Before it reaches boiling point make a smooth paste with two ounces of cocoa, two level table-spoonfuls of cornflour, and sufficient cold milk, and stir this in. Continue stirring until it thickens, then cook for five minutes longer, and remove from the fire, but go on stirring until it is cool. Pour into individual glasses, and decorate with whipped cream or Devonshire cream piled on top. Again blanched almonds can be used for decoration.

Chocolate Mousse: Dissolve two ounces of cocoa in half a pint of milk, flavour with vanilla, and cook for some minutes before pouring very slowly on to two egg yolks which have been beaten white with four ounces of caster sugar. Stir over the fire until it thickens, but do not let it boil. Put some ratafia biscuits in a glass dish, pour the chocolate over a meringue made with sugar and the beaten egg whites.

Chocolate Macaroons: Put together in a basin half a pound of ground almonds, a pound of caster sugar, three ounces of grated chocolate, a teaspoonful of lemon juice, and a few drops of lemon essence, and pound together lightly, working in enough egg whites to make a mixture just moist enough to drop from a spoon rather heavily. Cover a baking sheet with rice paper, force the mixture on to it in small rounds, dust with sifted icing sugar and place two pieces of blanched almond on top of each. Bake in a slow oven for thirty to forty minutes.

Chocolate Tartlets: Line some pretty pans with pastry—about a dozen—and fill them with a mixture made by grating four ounces of chocolate, adding to it half a tea-spoonful of powdered cinnamon and the grated rind of half a lemon, a pinch of salt and two ounces of caster sugar. Beat up the yolks of two eggs with half a gill of milk, stir into the chocolate and stir over the fire for ten minutes, when the eggs should thicken. Cool before using.

Chocolate Pudding: 4oz. chocolate, 1oz. cake or brown bread crumbs, 4oz. margarine, 3 eggs, a little flavouring, 3oz. sugar, 1 gill milk.

Beat butter or margarine and milk together, stir in grated chocolate and crumbs. Stir over heat till it leaves the sides of the pan. Let cool a little, then add sugar and egg yolks. Finally, fold in stiffly beaten whites. Steam two hours in a buttered mould or bake carefully 30 to 40 minutes. Serve with custard.

DOWN QUILTS.

A certain amount of fluffy atoms tend to escape from new eider-downs. From covers that have developed tiny cracks there may be quite an appreciable loss of down, and it is really necessary to turn the feathers into an absolutely new case. This may be of any material that is downproof, or can be made so by soaping. Most big stores keep very pretty proofed satens, a few have proofed cambrics, and most keep proofed white cotton for inner cases. If one of the latter be used to hold the down, any kind of attractive light weight fabric may be used for the outer jacket.

Practical Gown.

PEACE DEADLOCK
IN NORTH.CHINESE INSIST ON WITHDRAWAL.

ZONE PROBLEM.

Tokyo, Mar. 12. According to seemingly reliable but unconfirmed reports the War Office is preparing to start the withdrawal of a portion of the troops at Shanghai, even without waiting for the outcome of the Round Table Conference, as the purpose for which they were dispatched to Shanghai has been fulfilled.

Uyeda's Division.

Shanghai, Mar. 12, 4.10 p.m. According to a Japanese report, the Japanese War Office has decided to withdraw General Uyeda's Ninth Kwantung Division and General Shimamoto's Kuruma Mixed Brigade. An official order will be issued shortly. This leaves the Fourteenth Division and Naval troops to hold the present zone.—Reuter.

Another Deadlock.

Shanghai, Mar. 13, 5.20 p.m. Peace negotiations appear to have broken down, with the Chinese and Japanese failing to agree as to the phraseology of the terms designed to bring about a tentative cessation of hostilities.

The Chinese are refusing to consider peace until the Japanese troops are withdrawn and the evacuated area placed under the guard of Chinese civil authorities.

While the negotiations proceed between Mr. Shigemitsu and Mr. Quo Tai-chi, it is learned that the Municipal authorities in collaboration with the Japanese authorities are commencing on Monday to clean up the insanitary conditions in sections of Chapei.

There are indications that the Chinese will not consider the neutral patrolling of Chinese territory now occupied by Japanese troops.

Efforts for Peace.

It is believed that the League Commission will attempt to arrange peace terms prior to proceeding to Manchuria.

Sir Miles Lampson and Admiral Kelly are continuing their efforts in this direction.—Our Own Correspondent.

Cavalry Skirmish.

Shanghai, March 12, 11.52 p.m. Reporting on the skirmish last night, in which 30 mounted Chinese troops are alleged to have attacked a Japanese outpost and were repelled without any casualties, Mr. Shirakawa today issued a communique saying:—The attack discloses the disunion of the Chinese forces and their insincerity as regards the cessation of hostilities.—Reuter.

Soldier Speaks Out.

Nanking, Mar. 13. Tani Ting-kai, the commander of the Nineteenth Army, declared that there has been no fighting since March 8. He stated that accusations that the Government had sent reinforcements to Shanghai were without foundation, and declared that this was the time to concentrate the Government's strength, not to instigate dissensions by such rumours.—Reuter.

East Lancashires Arrive.

Shanghai, Mar. 12, 11.52 p.m. The 1st East Lancashire Regiment arrived today from Poona. They are replacing the 2nd Scots Fusiliers, who are returning to England on March 18.—Reuter's Morning Post Special.

China Explains.

Nanking, Mar. 13. The Foreign Minister, Mr. Lo Wen-kai, stated that the reason why China had not voted on the League Assembly resolution of March 11 was solely due to a telegraphic delay. The draft resolution reached Nanking at 8 p.m. on March 11 and instructions were immediately sent to Mr. Yen to accept it; but before the instructions reached Geneva the Assembly had voted. Mr. Yen has been instructed to inform the Assembly that China accepts the resolution, and to explain why China did not vote.—Reuter.

Japanese Evacuation.

Washington, Mar. 13. The United States is ready to cooperate with Britain, France and Italy in effecting an arrangement for the evacuation of the Japanese troops from Shanghai under the plan adopted by the League yesterday.—Reuter.

China's Arrears.

London, Mar. 12. In a letter to the Daily Mail from Geneva in regard to the Daily Mail article of February 29 alleging that China is not paying her League arrears, Mr. Jacklin, League Treasurer, says that the Chinese Government paid prompt-

In addition to bringing the usual personnel of naval officers, men and marines, the Devonshire has on board relief crews for H.M.S. Moth and H.M.S. Seamev. The men to be relieved on those vessels are to be transferred to the Devonshire, which is of the same class as the other cruisers on the China fleet, is the vessel on which a serious explosion occurred about two years ago, when one of the turrets exploded, killing several men.

AMERICA AND THE FAR EAST.SUPPORTING LEAGUE POLICY.

London, Mar. 13. Sir John Simon, in an interview with Reuter on his return to London, stated that he hoped the resolution passed by the League Assembly on Friday would ultimately lead to a settlement of the crisis in the Far East.

He expressed gratification that Mr. H. L. Stimson, the U.S. Secretary-General of State, had communicated with the Secretary-General of the League indicating that the United States approved and would support the League's policy.—Reuter.

by the full instalment of 481,000 Swiss francs due in 1931 under the League's 20 years' scheme.—Reuter.

Form of Persuasion.

Shanghai, Mar. 13. Chinese reports from Tientsin state that a new method has been adopted for persuading merchants not to buy Japanese goods.

A "Kowtow Society" has been formed, the members of which, dressed in sackcloth and carrying Chinese mourning wands, will visit shops and prostrate themselves and weep bitterly until the merchants promise not to import Japanese merchandise.—Reuter's Morning Post Special.

Tientsin Fears.

Nanking, Mar. 12, 6.24 p.m. The Mayor of Tientsin has arrived to hold a conference with Marshal Chang Hsueh-liang, it is understood, in order to report on the protest from the Japanese Consul to the Provincial Government regarding the anti-Japanese boycott in North China. The protest states that the Chinese must be held responsible for it. Chinese are apprehensive and are pointing out that a similar protest preceded the Japanese attack in Shanghai.—Reuter's Pacific Service.

Revolt Suppressed.

Tokyo, Mar. 13. According to despatches from Harbin, the mutiny at Taiheho has been suppressed by troops loyal to the new Manchurian Government.

The insurgents, who have been routed, are retreating to Alguin. For the purpose of ensuring peace and order Gen. Ma Chanshan, the new War Minister, has ordered a detachment of cavalry at Hailun to proceed to Taiheho, together with some infantry aboard a fleet of twenty motor lorries.—Reuter.

Japan's Attitude.

Tokyo, Mar. 12, 6.18 p.m. An Extraordinary Session of the Cabinet held recently is understood to have decided to adopt a policy of "wait and see" before finally deciding upon recognition of the new Manchurian State, as the question is complicated by its intimate bearing on international relations in connexion with the Nine-Power Treaty.—Reuter.

Russian Caution.

Harbin, Mar. 12, 4.01 p.m. It is reported that the Soviet authorities are purchasing large quantities of Manchurian flour and wheat for their Far Eastern and Siberian armies.—Reuter.

Marshal Wu's Views.

Shanghai, Mar. 12, 4.40 p.m. Marshal Wu Pei-fu has issued a circular telegram to the National Government and Provincial authorities which urges the despatch of a punitive expedition against the renegade Fu Yi who has become a rebel against China by yielding to the blandishments of the Japanese. The telegram also states that Japan, by promoting an independent State, is actually working for the annexation of Manchuria.—Reuter.

SHANGHAI WAR
LOSSES.CHINESE OFFICIAL

Official Chinese casualty figures have now been published revealing that 9,000 officers and men were killed or wounded between January 28 and March 3 in the fighting with the Japanese forces around Shanghai.

In addition, 500 Chinese coolies were killed. A majority of the casualties resulted from air bombs and artillery shells.

The official Chinese military statement said that the 88th Division, comprising natives of Chekiang and Kiangsu provinces, lost one-third of its total strength.

The Chinese figures were not as detailed as Japanese casualty figures. The latter, translated on the same basis as above, reported 2,416 army and navy personnel killed or wounded, and 59 civilians killed or wounded.

VON HINDENBURG
MISSES BY HAIR-BREADTH.

lica made a pilgrimage to the ancient chapel on the outskirts of Cologne at midnight, and knelt for three hours in the bitter cold, praying for Hindenburg's success.

Twenty thousand pilgrims attended a special Mass at the Cathedral between two and three o'clock in the morning, of whom eleven thousand received Communion at fifteen special altars.

The churches in the Rhineland were also thronged all day long.

WOMEN POLL HEAVILY.

Women began to flock to the polls as soon as the booths opened. The great majority are believed to have voted for Hindenburg.

An 84-year-old nun left the cloisters for the first time in her life in order to vote.

"How can I lie in bed and let Hitler in?" declared another woman, who, though very ill, despite the orders of her husband and her doctor, rose from a sick bed to go to the polling station.

These are typical instances of the keenness of the women voters, of whom it is estimated that at least 90 per cent. went to the polls.—Reuter.

WUCHOW.GOOD WORK NOW IN HAND.

Wuchow, Mar. 10.

The Wuchow Municipal government is continuing its progressive plan of improving the streets of the city. One important street is now in the process of being renovated, and a sewer laid.

It is expected that in the near future work will be started on the widening and levelling of Fu Hong Kwei. According to present plans the street will be widened and lowered 15 feet, in order that it will be on a level with the intersecting streets.

Fu Hong Kwei will then be one of Wuchow's leading thoroughfares, as it has situated on it the C. and M. A. Men's Bible School, a large primary school, as well as a large public building.—Our Own Correspondent.

OFFICIAL STAND ON

Lama, and Ma Wan Islands, all of which were miles away from any village or dwellings.

The rental of such beaches was $30 per annum for 40,000 square feet, and there were sufficient beaches to allow the Society to take as much as half a million square feet.

If the Nudists obtained the permission of the Government to hire such land, they would also be able to erect matcheds over an area of 500 square feet for a rental of $32 per year, or for 300 square feet at $20 per annum.

Nominal Rent.

It had been suggested to Mr. Laneport, however, that if the Government were sympathetic towards the movement, the Society might secure the ground at a nominal rent of $10 a year.

Acting on this advice, the Society had formed a Working Committee, which will next week begin their task of selecting a site on either of these three islands, and after having accomplished this, would make their recommendations to a general meeting of members. If the meeting confirmed the committee's selection, the Society would make immediate application for the renting of the ground from the Government.

Not for the Frivolous.

Mr. Laneport emphasised that the Society is for earnest-minded people only. They did not wish the foolish and frivolous to join the Society. It was their intention to practise the cult as was being done in Germany and other parts of the world, namely by the playing of games, athletics and gymnastics.

In Germany the cult was very advanced and was part and parcel of the daily lives of the people. The Society hoped to make it as essential to the people in Hongkong. Not only had the movement a huge recreation ground of forests, fields and meadows in Berlin, but once a week the members of the Society gave mixed swimming demonstrations in one of the public baths.

"Too Frightened".

Asked if the local Society intended to introduce a similar idea in Hongkong, Mr. Laneport replied in the negative, adding that the people here were "too frightened."

The objects of the Society were to take serious-minded people away from the turmoil of the city and allow them to get back to a natural state of life.

It was because they felt the Government would appreciate the progressive and healthy objects of the movement, that they were hopeful of receiving sympathetic consideration for their aims and requests.

MARATHON POSTPONED.

The Kowloon Marathon, fixed for this afternoon, has been postponed to a date to be announced later.

Playing golf at Happy Valley yesterday, Mr. A. C. Ellis lost his ball under unusual circumstances. A large lily-lark swooped down and carried it away!

Mr. E. C. Pearce, a warder of the Hongkong prison, who was reported missing from the Government Civil Hospital, has returned. He had been taken to Canton.

THE INDIAN
ORDINANCES.DECISIVE VICTORY FOR GOVERNMENT.

New Delhi.

The Government gained a decisive victory in the Legislative Assembly when the resolution moved by Sir Hari S. Gour, leader of the Opposition, condemning Gandhi's internment and the arrest of Sen Gupta, and expressing disapproval of the treatment meted out to women in the campaign against civil disobedience, was defeated by 62 votes to 44.

The majority was made up by 39 nominated members and seven Europeans, nine Muslims, six Hindus, and one Parsee out of the elected members.

The minority consisted of 43 elected members and one nominated member, namely the Labour leader, Mr. J. J. J. who was a delegate to the Round Table Conference in London.

Eight elected Muslim members supported the resolution, which also urged the Government to issue emergency bills in substitution of the ordinance, and recommended the appointment of a committee of inquiry into the happenings on the Frontier.

It was opposed by the Government spokesmen, who said it impugned the general policy of the Government in taking up the Congress challenge.

KOWLOON SAVE A POINT.

SNAP GOAL IN LAST FIVE MINUTES.

A KEEN STRUGGLE.

Kowloon 1 S.W.B. 1

A snap goal five minutes from the end enabled Kowloon to share points with the South Wales Borderers in Saturday's only local league game, the result of which might have been in favour of the soldiers had they possessed a forward with any shooting ability.

A remarkably keen contest for an end-of-the-season encounter, it fluctuated considerably. In the first twenty minutes there was a snap about Kowloon's work which boded no good for the Borderers and on more than one occasion Johnson was a trifle fortunate to get the ball away. Then the Borderers had a spell in the ascendancy and when Jones netted off McKelvie, the goal was well earned. Kowloon should have equalised within a minute, but Gillott's final shot after breaking clean through struck the cross-bar.

The Borderers vainly strove to increase their advantage in the second half and Kowloon, staging a great rally, equalised Eastman cutting through on the easiest possible scoring chance. Another glorious opportunity fell the way of Hedley soon afterwards but he missed.

Kowloon's three reserve players, rose to the occasion and but for an unfortunate accident to Hill, who twisted his knee at the beginning and was a passenger for the remainder of the game, it is possible that the home team would have completed the "double" against their visitors.

White and Martin played dashing football at back and the halves were sturdy in defence. The four forwards were somewhat ragged but nevertheless dangerous.

Underwood was outstanding for the Borderers, his fine constructive work more than compensating for his occasional lapses against Kowloon's liveliest wing.

Duncan did well on the extreme left until the second half when most of his centres went behind, but the right wing failed to reveal anything like its normal form.

Charity Match.

A Charity game arranged by the St. John Ambulance Brigade towards the Shanghai relief fund was played on the South China ground at Caroline Hill yesterday, the Chinese team beating a selected Army XI by four goals to one.

The ground was practically under water and the players found it difficult to keep their feet, while ball control was out of the question. H.E. Major General J. W. Sandilands, the G.O.C., was present throughout the game. Owing no doubt to the wet weather, the attendance was very poor.

The teams lined out as under:
Chinese—Chan Sik-pui, Tam Kong-pak and Wong Ping; Leung Wing-chui, Wong Mee-shun and Leung Sui-chan, Cheng Shui-hong, Chui Kwok-luen, Lee Wai-tong, Suen Kum-shun and Ip Pak-wah.
The Army—Johnson, Mullane and Morrison; MacGlashan, Channings and Underwood; Harris, Davies, Gillott, Polmore and Duncan.

Referee, S.M. H.J. Scott, R.E.

LOCAL RUGBY.

On Wednesday, the Hongkong Bank will play the Club at Rugby football at Happy Valley at 5 p.m. The Bank XV will be selected from the following:—W. H. B. Riggs, C. J. D. Law, S. J. D. Fox, G. S. Dunkley.

RUGBY NOVELTY CATCHES ON.

THE SEVEN-A-SIDE
TOURNAMENT.

With such encouraging results coming from the first seven-a-side Rugby tournament staged in the Colony, it is quite possible that ruggers enthusiasts can look forward to similar competitions as an annual feature. The final games, staged at the Club ground on Saturday, were as interesting as the preliminary matches during the week, and the big crowd went away after an afternoon's most entertaining sport. His Excellency the Governor, Sir William Peel, and H.E. Major-General Sandilands were among those present.

Seven games were played during the afternoon, providing the spectators with the speed and thrills that seven-a-side games gives. The pace was at the top from the start, and in running out winners, the Club's senior team gave an illustration that the competition was a veritable survival of the fittest. They took part in three of the matches, and played the last two in succession with only a short interval between. That the honours went in the right direction cannot be questioned as throughout the tournament the Club had shown their superior knowledge of the game and stamina.

Full results of the afternoon's play were:—

CRICKET LEAGUE.

INDIANS RETAIN SENIOR CHAMPIONSHIP.

The Indian R.C., whose match with the Kowloon C.C. on Saturday was postponed on account of the death of Mrs. W. F. Fincher, have become champions of the Senior Cricket League by virtue of the defeat of the Craigengower C.C. by the University by a margin of 25 runs.

The match was played at Pokfulam, the undergraduates batting first. With the exception of A. Rodrigues, who scored 20, and F. R. Zimmerman, who contributed 32, the batsmen failed to show signs of being able to make runs. F. Lee howled extremely well and took six wickets for 27 runs of a total of 120.

S. V. Gittins and W. Paterson gave the visitors a good start, but the other batsmen were unable to score the necessary runs for victory. D. J. N. Anderson captured six of the wickets for 25 runs.

SECOND DIVISION.

A seventh wicket stand which produced 98 runs was responsible for the defeat of the Police R.C. in their match against the Royal Engineers and Royal Corps of Signals at Soolampoo, the visitors losing by 70 runs.

FRIENDLY MATCHES.

A scratch team captained by J. E. Richardson beat the Hongkong Cricket Club in a friendly match by one wicket. The home team knocked up 190 runs by consistent scoring by their batsmen. H. P. Edwards with 32 being the highest scorer. Richardson scored 52 and R. M. Wood 33 towards a total of 196.

Craigengower v. Hongkong C.C.

The second teams of the Craigengower C.C. and the Hongkong C.C. met at Happy Valley, the visitors winning by two wickets. L. Kilbee scored 103 for the Hongkong C.C. before retiring whilst E. Souza was the chief contributor for the hosts with 67. The Happy Valley team knocked up a total of 168 runs, the visitors replying with 191.

C. F. Hyde, M. W. Turner, F. C. B. Black, R. A. Fawcett, D. F. C. Cleland, G. C. Moutrie, F. R. Burch, J. H. Sutcliffe, R. Stillard, R. P. Edwards, L. G. Robertson, R. H. D. Wade.

"Pressureless Touch"

PARKER WRITES EASIEST

PARKER DUOFOLD'S unique construction allows a tiny drop of ink to touch the paper an instant before the point itself. That is the secret of Parker's famous improvement "Pressureless Touch". It eliminates shaking and coaxing balky pens. With a Parker, you always write effortlessly—without pressure.

Parker, too, is 28% lighter than pens of hard rubber. Feather-lightness, perfect balance and a jewel-smooth point also combine to make Parker the easiest writing pen. After hours of Duofold writing, you'll find that hand and fingers are untired, ready for more.

See and try a Parker Duofold today at almost any good store. You'll find that writing ease is only half the Parker story. For no other pen has so many improvements as the pen trademarked "Geo. S. Parker—Duofold."

Parker Duofold

The new quick-drying ink, created by Parker makes your pen write infinitely better—smooth flowing, quick-drying, permanent.

MACAO RACES.

WHITE JADE STAG WINS DERBY.

Miserable conditions prevailed at Macao yesterday afternoon, when the Macao Jockey Club presented their spring races to a slightly diminished but enthusiastic band of racers.

Mr. Chan Tin-son who has been most successful with his ponies lately had the satisfaction of carrying off the M.J.C.'s first Derby classic when his pony White Jade Stag won in convincing style by five lengths.

Mr. L. G. Frost who rode the winner of this event was the most successful jockey of the meeting by scoring two wins and one third.

Mr. F. J. Gellion presented the valuable trophies.

HOME FOOTBALL.

ARSENAL AND NEWCASTLE TO CONTEST FINAL.

London, Mar. 13.

The semi-final matches in the English Football Cup competition were watched by 87,000 people. A dramatic last minute goal off the post by "Boy" Bastin took the Arsenal into the final. Manchester City, their opponents, held their own in a grueling game. Newcastle, after two early goals, were always superior to Chelsea.

A goal in the first minute of the match won Sunderland their game against Middlesbrough in the First Division of the League. By beating Mansfield by seven goals to one, Reading are making a bold bid to regain their lost position in the Second Division. They have not lost a single match since January 2.

M. BRIAND LAID TO REST.IMPRESSIVE FUNERAL AT PASSY CEMETERY.

Paris, Mar. 12. Amid most impressive funeral pomp the body of the late M. Briand was taken to-day to the cemetery at Passy, from whence, later, it will be transferred for burial to M. Briand's home at Cocherel, Normandy.—Reuter.

There has never been a more impressive national funeral to France's heroes.

The first step was the blessing of the Church on the man who had been excommunicated for having brought about the separation of the Church from the State, but who lived to be hailed as the world's peacemaker.

This solemn act was performed by Cardinal Verdier, Archbishop of Paris, in the Court Room of the Quai d'Orsay, where the black draped coffin lay at the spot where M. Briand last sat. M. Doumer and Government Ministers were among the few present.

The coffin was then carried out to the court yard, where M. Tardieu delivered an eloquent oration.

Military Display.

In the cortege the hearse was borne by eight ex-soldiers. The Republican Guards, three hundred ex-soldiers and a military band joined in the imposing procession which included M. Doumer, the Ambassador (Lord Tyrrell representing King George and Baron Sato representing the Emperor of Japan), a galaxy of

A BOATMAN SHOT.PIRATES' ATTACK ON CARGO JUNK.

A sudden attack by pirates on a cargo junk which was anchored in Chinese waters during the fog on Friday night has been reported to the Police by the owner and master, Mok Kwai-mul, who intimated that one of his folk, Choi Kau, who was climbing up a ladder from the hold to the deck, was wounded in the head, though not seriously.

The junk, of 655 piculs capacity, left Shamshipo on Thursday evening for Lantau with a cargo of rice and a crew of 11 males, one female and a child. After passing Chik Lap Kok at about 9 p.m. on Friday, fog was encountered in Chinese waters and the craft was anchored, the crew retreating for the night.

One of the folk, Choi Kau, went up the ladder from the hold and, on reaching the deck, two rifle shots were fired at the junk. The man was struck in the head and fell back into the hold. The crew then shut themselves in their quarters and, on emerging about half an hour later, found that two anchors, valued at $15, and two jackets, had been stolen from the deck.

None of the crew saw any of the pirates or the junk left at 11 p.m. and returned to Hongkong, the wounded man being taken to the Kowloon Hospital on arrival.

Foreign Ministers, including Sir John Simon, an influential League Delegation, and M. Briand's old friend Sir Austen Chamberlain.

Enormous crowds watched the passing of the procession which wended its way past the Unknown Warrior's Grave at the Arc de Triomphe to the quiet little cemetery at Passy.—Reuter.

MATCH KING'S DEATH.SUICIDE IN PARIS HOTEL ROOM.*FINANCE TANGLE.

Paris, Mar. 13.

Mr. Ivar Kreuger, the Swedish "Match King" has committed suicide following a nervous breakdown resulting from overwork. He had only yesterday arrived from America.

He was reported to be due to have a business meeting this morning with English, French and American bankers but did not put in an appearance, hence the discovery of the suicide.—Reuter.

An Investigation.

Stockholm, Mar. 13.

The Swedish Match Company announce that an investigation of the Kreuger Companies is to be begun.

Regarding Mr. Kreuger's suicide a special session of Parliament on Sunday night will pass a Bill providing for an immediate moratorium for private concerns.—Reuter.

Shot Through Heart.

London, Mar. 13.

Not since the disappearance of the Belgian millionaire, Mr. Lowenstein, in 1928, has such thunderstruck dismay been occasioned by the death of an individual as by that of the modern financial czar, Mr. Kreuger.

The event even takes prominence over the German elections in the English Sunday newspapers, which consider it to be a Swedish national calamity which is likely to have serious repercussions in the world of finance.

Mr. Kreuger, fully dressed, was found with a bullet in his heart in his Paris flat, and with a revolver beside the bed.

It is alleged that letters were found wherein he confessed his weariness of life and financial difficulties. Added drama is given by the fact that nearly 5,000 Kreuger and Toll shares were hung on the Wall Street market yesterday.

According to the Sunday Express the Kreuger Companies shares have fallen £113,000,000 since 1930.—Reuter.

Details of Drama.

Paris, Mar. 13.

The final act in the drama of Mr. Kreuger's death opened on March 11, when Mr. Kreuger arrived in Paris and breakfasted with Mr. Lutterin, the vice-chairman of the Swedish Match Company, who arrived from Stockholm on March 10. They decided to call a meeting at the hotel yesterday morning of leading shareholders in the concerns in which they were interested, and other international and industrial figures.

Mr. Lutterin called at Mr. Kreuger's flat at ten o'clock yesterday morning, but Mr. Kreuger had not risen and told Mr. Lutterin "I'll see you later."

Subsequently Mr. Kreuger's secretary, Mlle. Bokman, brought a memorandum to him, but he sent her away.

When Mr. Kreuger did not appear at the meeting Mr. Lutterin

A COMMON AIM.SIR JOHN SIMON SPEAKS WITH M. TARDIEU.

London, Mar. 12.

The Foreign Secretary, Sir John Simon, who left Geneva last night, arrived this morning in Paris and was met by the President Du Conseil, M. Andre Tardieu, with whom he was in conference from ten o'clock until noon.

A communiqué issued by the Foreign Office says: "Sir John Simon who wished to see Paris to-day to be present in person at M. Briand's funeral, repeated to M. Tardieu the expression of deep emotion caused to the Government and people of the British Empire by the death of the eminent statesman."

M. Tardieu thanked him deeply. The two, who had not had an opportunity of meeting since 20th February, talked of what has happened at Geneva since then. They expressed satisfaction at the happy conclusion of League of Nations labours by the unanimous approval of the final resolution, and they further reviewed the question which the disarmament conference will discuss next week.

Sir John Simon and M. Tardieu then considered the various programmes with which their respective Governments are at present faced. In particular they examined the economic situation of Central Europe. They found themselves in agreement that in this as in all other matters co-operation between France and Great Britain should extend over a wide field with the twofold object of appeasing political rivalries and expediting economic reconstruction in Europe.—Reuter.

became anxious, and dashed off to the flat, where he found Mr. Kreuger lying in bed dead, shot through the heart, an automatic pistol in his hand. Three letters were on the table, one addressed to Mr. Lutterin stating an intention to commit suicide.

Worried Over Loans.

An regards a rumour that France owed Mr. Kreuger 100,000,000 francs lent her in connexion with the match monopoly, the Matin learns that France repaid the money months ago, but Mr. Kreuger was worried with regard to loans to certain countries, which had declared moratoria; therefore he contracted loans with British and American bankers.

A New York message says that before news of the death of Mr. Kreuger, 165,000 Kreuger and Toll shares were sold in Wall Street yesterday, making a total of 422,000 in a week, the price having declined only a fraction.

According to the New York Times, 2,500,000 participating debentures in the Kreuger and Toll were acquired by Americans in twelve months.—Reuter.

Stockholm Statement.

Stockholm, Mar. 13.

The Swedish Prime Minister Mr. Ekman, in an interview stated that a Government bill giving a moratorium to private concerns is intended to allow companies in the Kreuger group to strengthen their resources if necessary, in view of the possibility of claims on them.

The Inspector of Swedish banks emphasised that the position of the

"SPECIALS" ON HORSEBACK.

TO SUPPLY THEIR OWN MOUNTS.

London may soon have a mounted branch of the Special Constabulary if a scheme now being considered by the Home Office is adopted.

It is not considered likely that any plan which involves heavy expenditure, will be sanctioned.

It is understood, however, that a scheme which would provide for the establishment of a mounted Special Constabulary, without heavy cost, is likely to be adopted.

His Own Horse.

All such service in the Mounted Branch will be voluntary, and recruits will have to undertake a certain number of drills and duties.

No horses will be provided, and the recruit, under the present scheme, will have to supply his own mount.

Uniform similar to that worn by the regular Mounted Police will be provided, but gloves, boots and spurs will have to be purchased by the recruit.

Cavalry Men Wanted.

The authorities expect that when the scheme is launched there will be a rush of recruits. Men between 25 and 45, with cavalry experience, will be preferred.

No recruit will be taught to ride. Each man approved for service will be personally chosen by the Commandant, and will have to pass a strict riding test.

JACOB FACTOR WINS.

BRITISH EXTRADITION REQUEST REFUSED.

Chicago, Feb. 11.
Acting upon a writ of habeas corpus, Judge George A. Carpenter, of the Federal Bench in Chicago, today dismissed the demand of the British Government for the extradition of Jacob Factor.

Factor's extradition was sought by the British Government on the allegation that he had participated in a share-pushing concern in London. Judge Carpenter ruled, however, that the offences set out in the British demand would not constitute a crime if committed in Illinois.

He ordered Factor, however, to deposit a bond of $50,000 dollars ($10,000 at par), pending the possibility of an appeal.

It was later intimated by Mr. Franklin R. Overmeyer, counsel for the British Consulate in Chicago, that further action against Factor was still open to him, but he had not yet decided upon what course should be taken.

TEACHER'S £1,500.

JILTED, AND NO WORD OF EXPLANATION.

An art teacher, who complained that she had been jilted by her fiancé without a word of explanation, was awarded £1,500 damages for breach in the King's Bench Division.

Plaintiff was Miss Ethelwyn Holbrook Wrench, of Ravenshall Rectory, Staffordshire, and the defendant Mr. Thomas Henry Walker, of Clyde Court, Napier, Hawkes Bay, New Zealand.

Mr. W. N. Staple said that Miss Wrench went in 1925 to the Girls' High School, Napier, and received £280 a year, plus board and lodging. In 1928 Mr. Walker either fell in love with her or pretended to do so, and it was agreed that when Miss Wrench's contract was completed at the end of 1929 they should return to England and be married.

The governors of the school tried to persuade Miss Wrench to stay, but she came to England in February, 1930. Mr. Walker was to follow, after paying a flying visit to his brother in Australia.

From the moment she left New Zealand Miss Wrench had not heard a word from Mr. Walker.

"Ever in My Thoughts."

In one of his letters in New Zealand Mr. Walker wrote:
"You must know how dear you have become to me. You are ever in my thoughts."

I can imagine all kinds of beautiful thoughts with you as the central figure always. You have become the incentive that leads me now to make ready for that wonderful life that is to be ours together in the homeland.

Miss Wrench said that Mr. Walker said he would not mind paying £2,000 or £3,000 for a house in England, that they would be able to have a car, live in the country, go to town for concerts, and winter abroad if England were too cold.

SIR WILLIAM JOWITT.

M.P.'S OBJECTION TO A JUDGESHIP.

A motion that another Judge should be appointed to the King's Bench Division was moved in the House of Commons by Sir Boyd Merriman, the Solicitor-General.

Captain Crookshanks (C. Gainsborough) said that if there were any connexion between the resolution and the recent retirement of Sir William Jowitt from the office of Attorney-General "I would say that there are some of us who would take grave exception to that appointment should it be made."

During the debate several of the speakers expressed the view that the present congestion of business

SNOWDEN'S TARIFF ONSLAUGHT.

TERMS ON WHICH HE STAYS IN CABINET.

Lord Snowden made an uncompromising Free Trade speech in the House of Lords when Lord Bunsby moved "That this House regrets the abandonment of the doctrine of Cabinet responsibility by his Majesty's Government."

His main points were:
Tariffs will be the issue at the next General Election.

On the vital matter we (the four Cabinet dissentients) certainly cannot be tongue-tied. It is fair to expect Free Traders to leave the field free for Protectionists to entrench their position while we allow the case for Free Trade to go by default?

The agreement to differ will break down if any attempt is made to limit the freedom which has been given to the dissentients.

We remain in the Cabinet only on the condition that we have the same freedom to express our views on this question as those who take the opposite view.

We believe that tariffs will be disastrous to the industrial life and prosperity of this country.

A Lonely Figure.

It was the first speech that Lord Snowden had made in the House of Lords. As he waited, sitting on the Treasury bench with Lord Hailsham (the Tory leader) by his side, and the Tory ranks massed behind him, he looked a strangely lonely figure.

Facing him two Labour peers—Lord Ponsonby and Lord Marley—were alone in a vast expanse of empty benches, but they did not look so isolated as the little figure, with the big head, sitting stiffly upright, with arms crossed tightly across his chest, among the Diehards and the Protectionists.

But there was no trace of emotion in his voice when he said quietly, while Lady Snowden leaned forward from the Peers' Gallery: "I have no party."

The ritual of the House came easily to him. No noble Lord could have been more dignified.

His challenging speech was followed closely by Sir Herbert Samuel, standing by the Throne.

Lord Hailsham warmly defended the agreement to differ on the ground that it prevented the break up of the National Government, which would have been a disaster to the country in existing conditions.

Lord Bunsby's motion was defeated by 73 votes to 7. The minority was made up of four Labour peers and three Tories.

In the courts was due to the fact that the present judges were too old. Younger men were wanted on the Bench.

It was also suggested that it did not make for the dignity of the Bench when Judges dealt with matters outside the scope of their judicial work.

SENSATIONAL SHANGHAI PLOT UNEARTHED.

ELEVENTH-HOUR DISCOVERY. IMPORTANT ARRESTS IN SETTLEMENT. SEIZURE OF NANTAO PLANNED.

(SPECIAL TO THE "TELEGRAPH").

SHANGHAI, Mar. 14.
SHANGHAI IS CREDITED WITH AN ELEVENTH-HOUR ESCAPE FROM ANOTHER GRAVE PERIL, THREATENING IN THE NANTAO DISTRICT, IN THE FORM OF AN ARMED ATTACK ON LINES SOMEWHAT SIMILAR TO THAT WHICH LED TO THE SINO-JAPANESE CLASH IN TIENTSIN AT THE END OF LAST YEAR.

Secret information of the plans of the organisers reached the Chinese authorities yesterday morning, and in conjunction with the British and French police, the plot was frustrated, the joint authorities scouring the districts under their control relentlessly for twenty-four hours, effecting a series of dramatic and important arrests.

Sensational revelations are expected when the men arrested are brought to trial.

The battle-fronts are reported to be quiet, though isolated incidents are reported to have occurred. Efforts to establish a permanent peace have made no progress hitherto.

The plot in Nantao was for the armed seizure of the district, which borders the Chinese City and the French Concession. It was frustrated largely through the instrumentality of the Chinese authorities, whose agents got dependable information regarding the plans and were able to name some of the leading figures.

IMPORTANT ARRESTS

A thorough comb-out for these men was made and eleven arrests were effected in the French Concession and the International Settlement.

Important seizures in the course of the raids included papers and documents which are expected to prove a fruitful source of further information, badges and special passes.

OFFICERS IN PLOT.

The seizures have led to the discovery of the whole plot. The leaders planned to organize a force of gunmen to take Nantao by force in a raid similar to the recent abortive raid in Tientsin, and according to the reports, several officers, holding important Government positions are connected with the plot.

HIGH TENSION.

High tension prevails but up to the present no untoward incidents have occurred.

One of the men arrested claims to have been an Advisor to the former Emperor, the present "dictator" of Manchuria, Hsuan Tung, and of Yuan Shih-kai, late President of China.

Other sensational disclosures are anticipated when the affair is finally sifted out.—Reuter.

PEACE OR WAR?

C.E.R. GUARDS IN REVOLT.

TAHEIHO REIGN OF TERROR.

GRAVE OUTLOOK.

Tokyo, Mar. 14.
The establishment of a reign of terror by rebel troops at Taheiho (Sachalin) has apparently been taken as an example in other parts of Manchuria and Inner Mongolia, and the situation is regarded with the gravest apprehension.

The Japanese military authorities have good reason to believe that the revolts in different parts of the country are definitely connected, but measures are to be taken to suppress the outbreaks.

One of the most serious developments has been an outbreak at Manchuli, near the Soviet border, where the guards of the Chinese Eastern Railway have murdered their commander and are looting the town.

TROOPS DESPATCHED

Information from Taheiho reveals that several civilians have been brutally slain by the rebels, who have looted all shops and warehouses, as well as the banks. The Japanese Command at Harbin is despatching the Fourth Regiment to Pinchow to restore order.

The station of Metaitze, which is only eight miles to the west of Harbin, on the Chinese Eastern Railway, was raided yesterday by a detachment of General Tsin Chao's troops.

They held up the place and re-treated after robbing the railway of cash amounting to about $3,000.

Immediate changes of an important nature are expected among the Chinese members of the Board of the Chinese Eastern Railway and it is thought that this will probably result in an anti-Soviet policy.

Meanwhile, there come alarming reports of serious disorders in Inner Mongolia, the domain of Prince Chai, who is at present in Changchun attending the celebrations in connection with the inauguration of the new Manchuria State and the installation of Hsuan Tung.

MONGOLIA RISING.

Prince Chai is expected to leave for home to-day to attempt to quell the rising.

His chief lieutenant has reported that about five hundred bandits have seized and occupied the walled town of Erlun, which they have looted.

Similar lawless bands have raided two other towns in the district to the west of Taonan.—Reuter.

MURDERS IN MANCHURIA.

Harbin, Mar. 14.
Three young Russian terrorists at Podgran'chnaya shot and killed a Swit-hman named Tupch, at his home on the evening of March 9. During the attack, Tupch's daughter was seriously wounded in the right leg.
Tupch was a friend of Krupenko, who was murdered on February 26 near Dalnitskoye.
It is widely believed that both murders were instigated by the O. G. P. U., the Soviet secret police.—Reuter.

Kreuger Suicide.

SHOCK TO WORLD OF FINANCE.

Reaction Difficult to Foresee.

London, Mar. 13.
The suicide in Paris of Mr. Ivar Kreuger, the Swedish multi-millionaire Match King is a matter of vital concern to financial markets all over the world.

The gravity of the possible sequel is stressed in all the morning papers, of which the Times, in a leading article, expresses the opinion that Mr. Kreuger's suicide will prove a further shock to confidence, which already unnerved and unsettled financial centres would pray to have been spared.

The financial pages express concern at the possible international stock market reaction, but the opinion is expressed that the recent revival of confidence may lessen the consequences.

Stockholm is, however, maintaining a stoical calm. The banks and the commercial houses will all be opened to-morrow (Monday) though the Stock Exchange will be closed down and Parliament is meeting at midnight to grant the moratorium recommended by the Premier in order to prevent a panic from developing.

It is impossible yet to foresee the financial reaction in France.

U.S. and Germany.

Kreuger shares have been freely taken up in the French market and a further batch of over thirty thousand franc debentures were to have been offered to-morrow.

It is expected that the United States and Germany will feel the financial shock more than other countries.

Kreuger's anxiety regarding the result of the German election was revealed in private conversations with banks in New York according to the Herald-Tribune. The journal says that he had made up his mind that Hitler was going to win, which he considered to mean a prolongation of the Central European crisis.

British Statement.

The British Match Corporation, holding the ordinary share capital of Messrs. Bryant and May, is not affected by the Kreuger financial operations, despite the fact that the Swedish millionaire was a director, according to Sir Arthur Stanley, chairman of the Corporation board.

It is reported in Stockholm that Kreuger insured his life in 1925 for from $300,000. to $500,000 with a leading Swedish company. Later, the Upper and Lower Chambers have passed the Kreuger's Moratorium measure.—Reuter.

GERMAN ELECTION RESULT.

PRESIDENT TO BE RE-ELECTED

SECOND BALLOT CERTAINTY.

Berlin, Mar. 13.
In what was probably Germany's most exciting election in history, President Hindenburg to-day failed to obtain re-election by the very narrow margin of one per cent, though he polled over seven million votes more than Hitler.

A second ballot will be taken a month hence, on April 10, when there will be a straight fight between Hitler and Hindenburg.

FINAL OFFICIAL FIGURES.

The final official figures of the election, except for a few outlying districts which can make no difference are:

HINDENBURG	18,601,746
HITLER	11,338,571
Thaetmann	4,982,079
Duesterburg	2,557,876
Winter	111,452

Hitler has declared his intention of contesting the second ballot, though victory for Hindenburg appears obvious.—Reuter.

NO SERIOUS RIOTS.

The polls closed at 6 p.m. and up to that time there had been no serious disturbances, except one clash between Nazis and Communists at Renscheidt, in which three Communists were killed and three Nazis were arrested. Three hundred arrests were made in Berlin for minor offences.

At 9.15 p.m. when the first five million votes had been counted, it appeared quite possible that Hindenburg would secure an absolute majority. He had obtained 2,500,000 votes and appeared to be easily winning the towns, though Hitler had obtained advantages in some of the rural districts.

Thaetmann, the Communist candidate did not appear to be making much headway while Winter was scarcely in the picture. Hindenburg was scoring heavily in the Rhineland, but the personal

HOPES DASHED IN LINDBERGH AFFAIR.

BABY REPORTED FOUND.

PROVES WRONG CHILD.

New York, Mar. 13.
Worried to desperation by the failure of all efforts to obtain the restoration of their baby son, Colonel and Mrs. Lindbergh had to bear another terrible shock to-day when their hopes, raised to a high pitch by reports from Crossville, Tennessee, that the boy had been found, were again dashed to the ground.

The end of a day of conflicting rumours found the sensational case no nearer solution; in fact, the chances have been rendered a trifle more difficult by the abandonment of another police line of attack.

Early in the day, the sheriff of Crossville, Tennessee, issued a report to the effect that a baby had been found tallying completely with description of the Lindbergh baby, adding that the description had been confirmed by Colonel Lindbergh over the telephone and that four persons had been arrested and would be held until the arrival from Honesdale of someone to identify the baby.

REPORT DENIED.

Soon afterwards, however, the Honesdale police stated that there was no truth in the Crossville report.

The commander of the Police Department at Trenton, New Jersey, subsequently issued a statement that the baby detained at Crossville had no connexion with Lindbergh.

SAILOR SET FREE.

Meanwhile, Henry "Red" Johnson, a sailor, and alleged sweetheart of Betty Gow, the nurse of the kidnapped infant, who was arrested during the week at West Hartford, has been released, exonerated from complicity in the kidnapping.

Public excitement had been stimulated by police claims that the detention of Johnson had resulted in the gleaming of "important information," and that they were certain he knew "plenty more."

It is understood that Johnson unwittingly disclosed details of the Lindbergh case to a person who might possibly have been responsible for the outrage. It was stated that he admitted sharing his knowledge with another person, whom he does not know.—Reuter.

HOPE WANING.

Meanwhile police continue a vigorous following-up of all clues, though hope is waning among those closest to the case and Col. and Mrs. Lindbergh are being kept in seclusion behind a barrier of police guards about their estate.

Thousands of letters, many fantastic and others giving promise of contact with the kidnappers or those acquainted with their movements continue to be received. Several have purported to set terms for return of the child, asking various sums, but the authorities are inclined to believe that none of these actually comes from the kidnappers although every effort is made to trace each note.

While New York "racketeer" leaders, to whom Colonel Lindbergh made personal appeal, have professed the greatest desire to co-operate for return of the child, they simultaneously declare they have no information.

Police are disposed to believe their account and to feel that the kidnapping was done by some person or persons outside the realm of regular crookdom. Chief fears now centre around the possibility that the kidnappers, terrified by the nation-wide hue and cry, may have killed the baby in an effort to destroy everything in the way of its identification, despite public offers of immunity from prosecution.—Reuter.

TO END "DOG FIGHT."

M. TARDIEU'S PLAN FOR CENTRAL EUROPE.

London, Mar. 13.

A wide measure of Anglo-French co-operation in the matter of the economic situation in Central and Danubian Europe, with the two fold object of appeasing political rivalries and expediting the economic reconstruction of Europe, was agreed between Sir John Simon and M. Tardieu after a conversation at the Quai D'Orsay yesterday.

An agreed statement was subsequently issued.

M. Tardieu's proposals are understood to include suggestions that the Governments of Austria, Czechoslovakia, Hungary, Rumania, and Yugoslavia consider among themselves with a view to introducing preferential measures for the mutual benefit of their commerce and industry.

M. Tardieu suggested that in the event of an agreement between these States, the Powers should assist in the practical application of the formula adopted.—Reuter.

THREE KINDS OF LOVE by KAY CLEAVER STRAHAN

BEGIN HERE TODAY

Ann, Cecil and Mary Frances Fenwick live with their grandparents. The sisters have been spoiled since childhood. The grand-parade known as "Rosie" and "Grand" have long since lost their wealth and the household as supported by Ann's and Cecil's earnings. For this reason, Ann, Cecil, and Philip, Cecil's younger brother, are still being petted by the grandparents though they have been married for years.

Cecil is in love with Mary Frances, an engineer, but when he proposes she refuses to marry him because she cannot leave Ann with the financial responsibility of the house.

Mary Frances, 15, and still in school, strikes up an acquaintance with Earl Demant, stock running actor. She meets him secretly on several occasions. Mary Frances has led him to believe she is 18 years old. He tries to persuade her to leave her partner in a vanishing act.

Phil takes Ann to dinner and a girl she has never seen before sends him a note. Phil's explanations are vague. On the way home Phil shows the car to investigate some engine trouble. Letty King, who wrote the note and Kenneth Smith, her escort, come along in another car. Letty addresses Phil Smith's car and asks him to take her home. He tries to make a date for the next night but she refuses.

CHAPTER XXIX

In the morning, a sunny Sunday morning with rolling and church bells, a messenger boy came to the Fenwicks' front door to deliver a letter. Ann went to the door and took the letter and read it in the hall and went back to her ironing in the kitchen.

Cecil, putting fresh papers on the cupboard shelves, asked, "What was it?"

"Nothing," Ann answered, and sizzled a damp finger against the iron, and pulled the cord loose for it to cool, "cept a note from Phil. I knew almost exactly what would be in it before I read it."

Cecil laughed. "Well, that's one way to say it. But it isn't what I'd say if Barry had sent me a note in the morning. You do take things for granted, don't you, angel? You know, I think it is wonderful, this devotion of Phil's for so long. Barry loves me—but I couldn't keep him as you've kept Phil. That is, I'm afraid I couldn't."

"Suppose you read my love letter," Ann said.

Cecil, amazed, refused to do anything of the sort, and upset a can of cinnamon.

"Do, please," Ann insisted. "It is funny. It's—too terribly funny. Read it, and I'll tell you about it later. I wanted to tell you, but I couldn't seem to get started."

Cecil read unthinkingly. "Dear Ann, if you care to telephone to me to explain, I shall be in my room until noon today. Yours, Phil."

"H'm?" Cecil questioned. "Cavalier, sort of."

"It is simply too funny," said Ann, and laughed and laughed.

"It may be funny," Cecil objected—it seemed barely possible that Ann's laughter was hysterical—"but it can't be as funny as all that. Tell me about it. You said you would."

Ann told, sparsely and with a lack of quotation that would have moved Mary Frances or any other gifted expositor to pity and to shame. "And now," she finished, and waved the sheet of paper, unfolded so that it flapped, "now—this!" She began to laugh again.

"If I want to explain why he told me lies and why she called him 'darling sweetheart,' he'll listen to me at any time before noon today. Did he say 'a.m.'?" She consulted the note. "No. Well, he should have said 'p.m.'." She kept on laughing.

"But, Ann," Cecil's very voice was shocked, "don't you—care?"

"I must care," Ann seemed to be arguing with herself. "I must care—terribly. But it hasn't started in yet. I suppose it is—excitement or something. There's a hole, of course. When I woke this morning I fell in the hole. But now it feels more like the place left after an aching tooth has been extracted. It is—sort of empty but comfortable—if you understand?"

Cecil, in her first love affair, up in a rarefied atmosphere amid stars and rainbows and sky things at a height from which the earth below was indiscernible, could scarcely be expected to understand the comforts of holes. She said, "Hum-um," ambiguously, and eyed Ann and wondered as to the wisdom of attempting either advice or consolation.

Ann appeared to need neither. Ann seemed to be finding the full requirements of life in a hot iron and a nightshirt of Grand's. Ann was smiling a little, and amazingly beautiful in that yellow smock.

Rosalie, full rigged from church, came cruising into the room.

"Dear girls," she said, "I come bringing good news, and—a pause, overlengthened, and a bright smile—"I fear, bad news. Now, which shall we have first, the good news—or—the bad news."

Ann did not answer. Cecil suggested that the bad news might better be put over with first. She didn't believe that Rosalie had either good news or bad news, for that matter.

"Bring me a chair, will you, please, Cecil, dear," Ann, dear, could you reach and lower the shade just a trifle? Thank you, dear, so much. I was sorry that you girls missed church this morning. Dear Dr. Tureck gave us uplift for the entire week—stimulation—um—all that. I am sure I have never listened to a more marvelous discourse. I told him so. I believe one should. I think, however, that it is in the worst possible taste to wear diamonds in the House of the Lord."

"Did Dr. Tureck wear diamonds?" Cecil asked. "And is that the good news or the bad?"

Rosalie shook a playful finger at Cecil. "My dear! Indeed he did not. He has none to wear, I'm sure. That horribly overdressed, rather common Mrs. Waggoner glittered her hands about, ungloried, you may be certain, all during the service. To say nothing of her ears. Large red ears absolutely unsuitable for diamonds. It was most distracting. Grand spoke of it, too. She sat in front of us. We were discussing that very thing when Miss Lane caught up with us."

Ann stopped ironing. Cecil turned from the shelves. Miss Lane was one—and the girls felt the most interested and important—of Mary Frances' teachers.

"Of course," Rosalie went on,

"Grand and I know that Miss Lane was—well, at least, overly pessimistic. These old maids, you know. One does hate to be censorious—particularly on Sunday—but Miss Lane—of course, never having married."

"Rosalie," Cecil interrupted firmly, "what did Miss Lane say? It was about Mary Frances, I suppose?"

"My dear! Have I worried you? I shouldn't have called it bad news—really. She began by asking after Mary Frances' health. And then she did go on to say that Mary Frances' school work of late had not been—well, entirely satisfactory."

"Did she say how it was unsatisfactory?" Cecil asked.

Ann questioned, "Was that all she had to say?"

"Practically all, yes. She talked rather long. We got so weary, so very weary, standing in the sun. She praised Mary Frances, you know—um—all that. Charming, really—or, rather, you understand me, she tried to be, though of course she had no real personality of any sort. It is no wonder that she hasn't appealed to gentlemen, is it? She is so sort of—well, unwhimsical. Sort of—"

"Did she say Mary Frances' work had been unsatisfactory in her department only? Or did she know about the other departments?" Cecil insisted.

"Well, as to that, she did mention that she had talked with the other teachers. She said that until this term Mary Frances had been so unusually brilliant. She wondered about her health. Grand and I think it might be wise to take her out of school for a time."

Ann and Cecil spoke together, with one voice. "No, no, we'll not do that."

"We'll think it over, of course. We might allow her to finish this one term—it is only a month now, isn't it? And then we'll see whether her strength can be built up during the summer. And now for the good news. Mr. and Mrs. Carmichael have invited Grand and me to spend the first week in July with them in their beautiful new home at Seaside. They are going to have a small house party—to celebrate their wedding anniversary. Mrs. Carmichael's charming sister and her husband, Mr. and Mrs. Day—her name is Deborah—Deborah Day—isn't that utterly quaint and delightful?—are also to be their guests. Our first thought was, as you may know, that we couldn't leave our little girls. We said as much, and frankly. But Mr. and Mrs. Carmichael were so charmingly insistent. They quite overpowered our every objection. As they said, we see so very little of you now, either of you since you both have your sweethearts—"

Cecil put a stop to that. "Of course you must go. It will be splendid for both of you. Won't it, Ann?"

Ann agreed as wholeheartedly as a person whose mind is fully occupied with two other subjects at the same time could be expected to agree.

"I fancy," Rosalie said, "that our Ann may be wondering how we are

EMPIRE TRADE.

F.M.S. TARIFF SCHEDULE PRAISED.

London, Mar. 12.

The Times, in an editorial, applauds the preference on British goods in the new tariff schedule of the Federated Malay States as being helpful to the British trader affected and will be appreciated by this country as a welcome response to the changed British policy towards trade in the Colonial Empire.

The Times goes on to comment on the economic development of the scattered British Colonies and Protectorates, hitherto regarded with over much indifference by successive British Governments: therefore the National Government's recognition of their needs by the Import Duties Act exemptions is all the more welcome.

Preference to the Colonies and Protectorates is long overdue. All of them have hitherto been ready to help British trade in every way possible, an attitude now stimulated by the changed British tariff policy.—Reuter.

PRISON MYSTERY.

The car, driven by Mr. Parker Ashwell, a Leicester auctioneer, with Mr. Lambert, a member of a Leicester motor firm, was passing the prison, when a piece of coal was thrown over the wall. It fell on the car, damaging the fabric.

Several other pieces followed and a woman and her daughter just escaped being struck.

COAL THROWN OVER WALL HIT A CAR.

Two occupants of a car and two pedestrians had narrow escapes from injury when a mysterious incident occurred at Leicester Prison

CINEMA SCREENINGS.

NOTES SUPPLIED BY THE THEATRES.

It has been left to Twickenham Film Studios to give us the most convincing picture to date of the famous Holmes and Watson collaboration. "The Sleeping Cardinal," is not, of course, a Conan Doyle story, but a blending of two—"The Empty House" and "The Final Problem"—and a surprisingly good job has been made of the blending, for, with such old familiar friends as Professor Moriarty, Colonel Moran, Inspector Lestrade, and Mrs. Hudson, again in skilled and sustained association with Holmes and his devoted scribe, a rattling good mystery-thriller has resulted.

The main development is born of "The Empty House," for the other story is only touched upon to introduce the sinister personality of Moriarty and to emphasize his terrifying menace. We see how Ronald Adair, card cheat, is threatened with exposure by the Moriarty gang if he will not convey to the continent a number of forged notes. Sherlock Holmes is called in, and, by a series of amazing yet convincing deductions, recognises the hand of Moriarty, not in the forged notes situation, but in the subsequent mysterious murder of Adair. Holmes has an elaborate trap for the master criminal, who is finally caught and handed over to justice.

This skeleton of a tale of the narrative does but foreshadow the variety of thrilling and dramatic situations which form the main development, all skilfully interlarded with touches of light relief of the "elementary" my dear Watson order, or any other at the Scotland Yard mentality. Such important situations as the guilt of Adair, his trapping by Moriarty, and the latter's carefully concealed personality are particularly well done, while the final unmasking of the latter must infallibly create a profound surprise except to those familiar with the original story.

No less entertaining is the excellent all-round characterisation, which agreeably conforms to the Canon Doyle tradition. Arthur Wontner, for instance, gives an extremely realistic study of Sherlock Holmes, dealing only with interpolated touches of diverting whimsicality foreign to the nature of the most famous detective in fiction.

Ian Fleming, too, is delightfully wooden-headed as "My dear Watson," while Philip Howland and Minnie Rayner are both well in the picture as Lestrade and Mrs. Hudson respectively. A word should also go to Gordon Begg for his realistic character work in the small part of the butler; he is an admirable type, and sympathetically combines professional dignity with an austere urbanity. Leslie Perrins and Louis Godrich carry on the good work with creditable characterisations of Adair and Colonel Moran.

Leslie Hiscott's direction is slick and workmanlike in its effective linking-up of clue and deduction, and his climax of the attack on Holmes is a model piece of suspenseful treatment. Technical merits, too, are on an efficient plane, settings, photography and recording being further tribute to Twickenham resources.

"The Yellow Ticket."

What is the shortest road to screen fame? If you are one of the country's countless movie aspirants you have doubtless asked this question many times, of yourself, of your friends and of the many people who profess to know the secrets of Hollywood.

Judging from the various producing companies' rosters of stars and featured players, the correct answer would seem to be the stage. And the proof of this answer is again attested to by the histories of those players who make up the brilliant cast that enacts Raul Walsh's Fox dramatic production, "The Yellow Ticket," showing at the King's Theatre to-day.

In the stellar role is the glamorous and exotic Elissa Landi of international renown. Miss Landi played her first professional role on the London stage and rose to stage fame in New York as well as in the English capital before going to Hollywood.

Lionel Barrymore, who plays the leading male role, is a member of Broadway's royal family and would still be playing leading parts on the New York stage had the films not made him a more attractive and lucrative offer.

The third featured player, Laurence Olivier, created the role of Captain Stanhope in the London stage production of "Journey's End," which won him a role in the New York production of "Private Lives" and in turn a Hollywood contract. And the same thing applies to the other important players, Walter Byer, Rita Lally, Sarah Padden and Mische Auer, all of whom gained the poise, the dramatic talent and perfect direction demanded by the talking screen by years of experience in stock, vaudeville and on the legitimate stage.

"The Yellow Ticket," enacted against a background of mystery, intrigue, oppression and cruelty in a setting of present-day London, details the tragic adventures of a beautiful and wholesome young peasant girl, who by circumstance becomes the possessor of a yellow ticket which brands her as social outcast, and the victim of the brutal and merciless hand of the City's secret police.

The story was adapted for the screen by Jules Furthman and Guy Bolton from Michael Morton's famous play and was directed by the man who gave the films such success as "What Price Glory?" "The Cock Eyed World," "The Man Who Came Back" and "Sadie Thompson," "Raul Walsh."

"The Cheat," which is coming to the King's Theatre next Wednesday, Paramount's new modern dialogue edition of Hector Turnbull's famous story of silent days with Tallulah Bankhead and Irving Pichel in the roles originally foreign to Fanny Ward and Sessue Hayakawa, is entertainment of the type that will satisfy the most voracious type of excitement cravers.

Miss Bankhead, who has made personal triumphs of her previous American photoplay opportunities, has a more dramatic and suspenseful story in "The Cheat," and her supporting cast is adequate to an exacting detail. George Abbott shows the same fine directorial quality of naturalness in allowing the characters to delineate the proper types, which was noteworthy in his "Secrets of A Secretary" and "My Sin."

The story is of a woman who allows a flirtation and gambling debt to carry her into an intricate web of fraud and intrigue, and who, on the brink of fulfilling a promise to a man of wealth whose code of honour has been perverted by life in the Orient, she is branded with the symbol this man uses to identify women of contempt. The injured lady shoots him, not mortally, and in consequence she and the husband, eager to shield her reputation, are compelled to air the entire affair publicly in court.

Harvey Stephens, Ann Stephens, Robert Starnes, Jay Yaslett, William Ingersoll and Hanaki Yoshiwara have supporting roles.

"Age for Love."

Only two days remain in which to see Howard Hughes' brilliant and sensational production, "The Age for Love," at the Central Theatre. The exactly crowds which have attended this picture is proof of its amazing entertainment features.

Not since "Hell's Angels" and "The Front Page," other Howard Hughes presentations, have local movie-goers been as thrilled and amazed. "The Age for Love" packs a punch in every scene, and is packing them in the theatre at every performance.

It discloses a new Billie Dove, showing the great beauty of the screen in the most superb performance of her career. It introduces a new and dynamic leading man, Charles Starrett. And it presents Edward Everett Horton, Lois Wilson and Mary Duncan in their greatest film roles.

Frank Lloyd, prize-winning director, was responsible for the direction of "The Age for Love" an ultra-modern romantic-drama, based on Ernest Pascal's widely-read novel, and Robert E. Sherwood, noted playwright and film critic, wrote the dialogue. It's a United Artists picture.

FOR OUR LADY READERS.

BEAUTY ON THE RIVER.

The beautiful blue Danube is something more than a favourite waltz tune to Countess Mary Radetzky. It's a river to row on! The Countess, shown here in rowing attire, is stroke of the champion crew of the Viennese Women's Rowing Club. She is a great-granddaughter of famous Field Marshal Radetzky.

NEW LINGERIE.

Now Cut on the Cross.

Straight goods are scorned by the Paris lingerie-makers. All the new smart lingerie is cut on the cross. There is a reason. Garments cut on the cross are slenderizing and a blessing to the stout.

Frenchwomen prefer their lingerie in crepe-de-Chine, washing silk, and pure white linen.

They do not like much lace trimming, preferring hem-stitching, tucks, and a little embroidery.

Ninety per cent. of them choose either pale pink or white for their undergarments. A famous maker of lingerie in Paris says his clients prefer white, that pale pink is second, and pale blue third.

This season many of the new necklaces and bracelets serve a double purpose. As well as being an entirely original ornament, they take the place of white collars and cuffs, with the all-popular black and white ensemble.

A fringed necklace or innumerable four-inch strings of tiny white beads, made so that the bottom of the fringe just reaches the edges of the "V" decolletage produce a white-collared effect.

Apart from the white "lingerie," jewellery, steel seems all-conquering as far as necklaces are concerned. The variations of steel rings are really innumerable. They range from what look like the works of an alarm clock to heavy, triangular Cubist designs.

The scarlet and steel necklaces and bracelets are very attractive, although the black and steel versions look even smarter. A lapis lazuli blue variety is much in evidence. At the moment lapis lazuli beads of every sort are so much seen in Paris that it is to be feared the fashion for these will be killed by too much attention.

TO-DAY'S RECIPES.

Make It with Chocolate.

Dishes made with chocolate are a pleasant variation in the menu.

Chocolate Trifle: Make a custard with a pint of milk, two eggs, two ounces of cocoa and 12 lumps of sugar. Spread some sponge cakes with jam, moisten with syrup flavoured with sherry, and pour over the custard. Decorate with whipped cream and chopped pistachio nuts, or use split blanched almonds.

Chocolate Creams: Heat a pint of milk in a double saucepan, sweeten with 11 lumps of sugar and flavour with vanilla. Before it reaches boiling point make a smooth paste with two ounces of cocoa, two level tablespoons of cornflour, and sufficient cold milk, and stir this in. Continue stirring until it thickens, then cook for five minutes longer, and remove from the fire, but go on stirring until it is cool. Put into individual glasses and decorate with whipped cream or Devonshire cream piled on top. Again blanched almonds can be used for decoration.

Chocolate Mousse: Dissolve two ounces of cocoa in half a pint of milk, flavour with vanilla, and cook for some minutes before pouring very slowly on to two egg yolks which have been beaten white with four ounces of caster sugar. Stir over the fire until it thickens, but do not let it boil. Put some ratafia biscuits in a glass dish, pour the chocolate over a meringue made with sugar and the beaten egg whites.

Chocolate Macaroons: Put together in a basin half a pound of ground almonds, a pound of caster sugar, three ounces of grated chocolate, a teaspoonful of lemon juice, and a few drops of lemon essence, and pound together lightly, working in enough egg whites to make a mixture just moist enough to drop from a spoon rather heavily. Cover a baking sheet with rice paper, force the mixture on to it in small rounds, dust with sifted icing sugar and place two pieces of blanched almond on top of each. Bake in a slow oven for thirty to forty minutes.

Chocolate Tartlets: Line some pastry pans with pastry about a dozen—and fill them with a mixture made by grating four ounces of chocolate, adding to it half a teaspoonful of powdered cinnamon and the grated rind of half a lemon, a pinch of salt and two ounces of caster sugar. Beat up the yolks of two eggs with half a gill of milk, stir into the chocolate and stir over the fire for ten minutes, when the eggs should thicken. Cool before using.

Chocolate Pudding: 4oz. chocolate, 4oz. cake or brown breadcrumbs, 4oz. margarine, 3 eggs, a little flavouring, 3oz. sugar, 1 gill milk.

Heat butter or margarine and milk together, stir in grated chocolate and crumbs. Stir over heat till it leaves the sides of the pan. Let cool a little, then add sugar and egg yolks. Finally, fold in stiffly beaten whites. Steam two hours in a buttered mould, or bake carefully 30 to 40 minutes. Serve with custard.

DOWN QUILTS.

A certain amount of fluffy atoms tend to escape from new eider-downs. From covers that have developed tiny cracks there may be quite an appreciable loss of down, and it is really necessary to turn the feathers into an absolutely new cases. This may be of any material that is "downproof," or can be made so by seaming. Most big stores keep very pretty proofed satens, a few have proofed cambrics, and most have proofed white cotton for inner cases. If one of the latter be used to hold the down, any kind of attractive light weight fabric may be used for the outer jacket.

MONDAY, MARCH 14, 1932.

THE LEAGUE AND THE CRISIS.

Although the League of Nations Assembly has adjourned sine die, a special committee of nineteen members has been charged with the handling of the Sino-Japanese problem. This body is not required to submit its report until May 1st, but it is to be assumed that should the situation necessitate the step, the Assembly will again be called into session before that date. The Assembly is evidently hoping that its efforts to set in train negotiations between China and Japan, with the assistance of the neutral Powers, will lead to a solution of the impasse by persuasive methods. The chief point is the withdrawal of the Japanese forces, and it remains to be seen whether there is any likelihood of this being effected in circumstances which are acceptable to China.

The Chinese stand, that there should be no strings attached to the Japanese withdrawal, is quite understandable. It is based on the contention that there has been no justification for the invasion of Chinese territory. The alleged danger to Japanese nationals is regarded more as an excuse for interference with China's territorial integrity than as a circumstance necessitating intervention; besides which it is contended that the scope and severity of the Japanese operations have been altogether beyond the necessities of the case. In this connection, Mr. Yen, during the Assembly, Mr. Sato's reply to the meeting in Geneva, pointed out that Japanese troops and tanks had been landed at a point forty miles distant from Shanghai, a circumstance which could not be defended on the ground of protecting Japanese nationals, which would in due course be withdrawn. It is suggested on Friday that China would, at the Assembly meeting, object to the creation of a neutral zone at Shanghai, and although the objection does not appear to have been voiced, we must not be surprised if the Chinese take this line. Presumably, the Chinese viewpoint is that to create such a zone will be tantamount to depriving China of her territorial sovereignty in the affected area, since it would be policed by foreign forces. From the foreign standpoint, too, the plan is one which may be viewed with some misgivings, as liable, in certain eventualities, to lead to undesirable complications. Everything, as we have said, really hinges on the sincerity of Japan's intentions to withdraw her forces. Recent experience of Japanese policy gives some reason for fearing that the conditions attached to withdrawal may be such as to arouse Chinese opposition. The fact may as well be faced that each side still views the other with feelings of suspicion. Both have lately been accusing each other of carrying on the hostilities in a restricted form, and so long as these allegations continue to be made, there is ever present the fear that major operations may once again break out.

The only satisfactory aspect of the situation at the moment is that the real fighting has now ceased for some considerable time. That is something to the good, and if this position can be maintained a little longer, hopes for an adjustment on conciliatory lines will be strengthened. But in saying so much we do not shut our eyes to the fact that the real problem lies ahead. The setting in train of negotiations is one thing; the likelihood of success in these parleys, quite another. The issues are of the first magnitude; they are, moreover, not without their complications. Not only is it a matter of adjusting the quarrel as between China and Japan: the whole stability of the League of Nations is involved. As one of the delegates to the Assembly put it last week, the League must give the world an example of firmness and energy in upholding the principles of the Covenant, because, to use the words of another delegate, the world will return to barbarism unless respect for the Covenant is established.

Signboards of the Times.

Two complementary advertising movements are in full swing in England just now. One says, "Advertise more." The other says, "Stop advertising badly." Both are in the hands of organisations consisting of disinterested, public-spirited individuals, who have no axes to grind, no wares to push; and neither in any way interferes with the working of the other. In one direction there has been the influence of the Prince of Wales, calling upon Englishmen to push their goods by advertisement abroad; there has been the "Come to Britain" movement plunging in a practical manner into the business of publicity; and there has been the authorisation to towns by Parliament some years ago to make known the charms of their neighbourhoods by advertisement. And of the movement toward better advertising, the "Scapa Society," is an example. It has for its object the controlling and even the prohibition of unsightly advertising signs in public places. Under pressure from this body, Parliament has conferred on the municipalities another right—that of restricting or prohibiting advertisements, in towns as well as in rural areas. Turning for a moment to America, on the Baltimore Turnpike approaching Washington there are said to be 1099 advertising signs in twenty-seven and seven-tenths miles, an average of thirty-nine to the mile. It is not easy to pass a disinterested artistic judgment on each of these greening, a to the traveller, since a car at average speed passes a sign every two seconds. The total effect is cinematographic. On the Hounslow-to-Bath road in England there is more leisure for reflection, for in ninety miles the motorist is confronted with only 154 signs. But the most reliable opinion is unfavourable to both exhibits. Unfortunately, not everybody is agreed as to what advertisements are unsightly, and what are not. This is a genuine difficulty, but there is a way of

FREE TRADER ON TARIFFS.

By J. A. SPENDER.

I count myself one of the "Old Contempts" of the Free Trade army; and there is no mistake about it, we are in full retreat from our Mons. The enemy have marched through the neutral territory of the National Election, and are advancing on our capital. They think the war will be over in July, and that the rest will be only a matter of fixing the penalties and indemnities.

I doubt it. On the contrary, I believe we shall have our Marne, but, having learnt from experience, I refrain from speculating on the duration of the war. I only hope it will not be too long or too costly.

The "Discredited Dogmas."

The exultation of the Tory Party is natural, and let us handsomely acknowledge that they have shown remarkable skill in gathering up and concentrating on a single object all the emotions, discontents and perplexities of the hour—the reaction from Socialism, the confusion of political boundaries, the wreckage made in the world by embittered politics and economic blundering, the inclination to try any new thing which promises a change.

Yet I think they show great audacity when they talk about the "discredited dogmas" of Free Trade, and the "ancient shibboleths" which we, the Old Contempts, are supposed to be "mumbling." For there never was a moment when these epithets and phrases were more nonsensical.

The Vindication of Free Trade.

It is not too much to say that the fourteen years since the war have been one long demonstration of the folly of Tariffs. Year by year, under the stress of Reparations, Debt and Tariffs—that evil Trinity—the economic structure of the world has been laid bare and found to correspond in all its parts with the account that the Free Trade theorists gave of it.

Year by year impartial experts assembled at Basle, and Geneva, have warned the nations of the danger of persisting in the self-imposed blockade of their Tariff walls, and their warnings have come true.

The Test of Experience.

Nowhere in the world are Tariffs producing the results claimed for them by their advocates in this country. Whether we look east or west, we look in vain for a country where they are curing unemployment, balancing trade, bringing prosperity.

All over the map we find countries in which they are the sport of vested interests and political demagogues outbidding each other in the service of these interests. Tariffs are beyond question the most dangerous source of political corruption in the world to-day.

Our Special Tariff.

What is there in Mr. Chamberlain's Tariff which should cause me in face of these accumulative facts to repeat of my Free Trade convictions? It is a monstrous structure of duties in an ascending scale, duties for revenue, duties for protection, duties for Preference, favourable duties for the friendly foreigner, punishing duties for the unfriendly. Almost every part of it conflicts with every other part, and the whole of it is drenched in politics. What sort of hotch-potch will result no man can predict, but the idea of an impartial advisory Committee of pure science, and solving its innumerable problems, commercial and political, without reference to Parliament, is moonshine.

Tying Trade in Knots.

On these lines the British Tariff promises to be the most complicated, the most uncertain in its incidence, and the most vexatious of any in the world. Mr. Chamberlain talks of its being "flexible and elastic," but the knots will be fixed after prolonged negotiations with scores of Governments and Administrations, and can only be altered by the same process. Never did a country tie itself in such a knot—double, treble, quadruple, quintuple knot—as is now proposed for the trade of Great Britain.

I don't believe it, as the child said when it first saw a giraffe. This Tariff, with its pretentious facade, will either tumble down as it is built up, or be a mere disguise for the crude familiar thing, foodtaxes and all that we know protection to be. In either case, it is our duty to fight it from the beginning and all through.

This country, with its crowded population and life-and-death need of cheap and abundant supplies, will not stand much of these experiments. Any political clatter which causes us to forget the millions for whom Free Trade has been a vital interest will surely bring its Nemesis.

Dangers Ahead.

Apart from the results on our domestic interests, there are two very serious aspects of this business which we have always to bear in mind.

First, the Imperial aspect. Even when confined to one country, Tariffs are the most fruitful cause of recrimination, and we are deluged with the Empire in our Tariff. What is called "Empire Free Trade" is a return to the mercantile-colonial ideas of the eighteenth century which lost us the American Colonies. In the last few weeks I myself have received letters both from Canada and South Africa saying that we are living in a fool's paradise, and warning me of the dangers lurking in this subject.

Next, the international aspect. We cannot go far with the idea of organising the British Empire as a unit against the world without profoundly changing our relations with foreign nations and raising new questions, especially about sea-power, which may gravely prejudice the cause of peace and disarmament.

I can only glance at these questions to-day but perhaps I have said enough to explain why, as an Old Contemptible, I am for no surrender. If we fight on, we shall have our battle of the Marne.

Phipps Proposes

ELECTRIC BRIDGE.

The international contract bridge tournament which was played at Grosvenor House, Park-lane, W., represents a great advance on previous parties of a similar nature.

For the first time, strong silent bids have been introduced—the players calling their hands by means of a "bidding board."

In all other respects, however, the play adheres to the conventions which have remained almost unchanged since Horstius held the first bridge tournament.

Of course, the "bidding board" only eliminates the actual verbal calling. It takes no claim to abolish such traditional gestures as sniffling, winking, leaning, growling, scowling, or howling, which make bridge so easily the most popular social pastime.

The device, which consists of a board divided into sections marked in suits and numbers on which the bid is registered by two chips, has been used in this tournament to overcome linguistic embarrassment between the British, Dutch, and German teams.

Screened Asterisks. But a report states that experiments are being conducted in Holland with an electric bidder, designed not so much as a form of cardroom Esperanto as an emotion sedative. The Dutch, in short, feel that by mechanising the game they may divert passion into kilowatts.

That is an excellent idea—an idea which can be pushed still further. The mechanisation should not stop at the bidding, playing, or scoring.

It must be possible to register "Having no spades, partner?" "1-1-1-1" or even "1-1-1-1-1-1" on the automatic screen, which should also be able to accommodate the subtlest idioms of the "post mortem."

"Say, Captain—what was that address again? You know how I forget numbers."

OFFICIAL STAND ON NUDISM.

NO DECISION YET CALLED FOR.

The Government has not defined its attitude as yet regarding the Hongkong Nudist movement, a Telegraph representative was informed by an official at the Colonial Secretary's Office this morning.

No application for the renting of a beach for the use of Nudists has been received by the Government, and until this step has been taken the authorities cannot indicate their attitude regarding the possibility of allowing the Society the use of a beach.

Mr. H. E. Laneport, President of the Society, when seen later, was, however, very hopeful that the Government would lend a sympathetic ear to their request.

Island Seclusion.

The Superintendent of Crown Lands had already been interviewed and according to Mr. Laneport had expressed the personal view that there seemed no reason why the authorities should not accede to the Society's desires. There were, this official informed Mr. Laneport, numerous stretches of beach on Lantau, Lamma, and Ma Wan Islands, all of which were miles away from any village or dwellings.

The rental of such beaches was $30 per annum for 40,000 square feet, and there were sufficient beaches to allow the Society to take as much as half a million square feet.

If the Nudists obtained the permission of the Government to hire such land, they would also be able to erect makeshifts over an area of 500 square feet for a rental of $32 per year, or for 300 square feet at $20 per annum.

Nominal Rent.

It had been suggested to Mr. Laneport, however, that if the Government were sympathetic towards the movement, the Society might secure the ground at a nominal rent of $10 a year.

Acting on this advice, the Society had formed a Working Committee, which will next week begin their task of selecting a site on either of these three islands, and after having accomplished this, would make their recommendations to a general meeting of members. If the meeting confirmed the committee's selection, the Society would make immediate application for the renting of the ground from the Government.

Not for the Frivolous.

Mr. Laneport emphasized that the Society is for earnest-minded people only. They did not wish the foolish and frivolous to join the Society. It was their intention to practise the cult as was being done in Germany and other parts of the world, namely by the playing of games, athletics and gymnastics.

In Germany the cult was very advanced and was part and parcel of the daily lives of the people. The Society hoped to make it as essential to the people in Hongkong. Not only had the movement a huge recreation ground of forests, fields and meadows in Berlin, but once a week the members of the Society gave mixed swimming demonstrations in one of the public baths.

"Too Frightened."

Asked if the local Society intended to introduce a similar idea in Hongkong, Mr. Laneport replied in the negative, adding that the people here were "too frightened."

The objects of the Society were to take serious-minded people away from the turmoil of the city and allow them to get back to a natural state of life.

It was because they felt the Government would appreciate the progressive and healthy objects of the movement, that they were hopeful of receiving sympathetic consideration for their aims and requests.

AMERICA AND THE FAR EAST.

London, Mar. 13.

Sir John Simon, in an interview with Reuters on his return to London, stated that he hoped the resolution passed by the League Assembly on Friday would ultimately lead to a settlement of the crisis in the Far East.

He expressed gratification that Mr. H. L. Stimson, the U.S. Secretary-General of State, had communicated with the Secretary-General of the League indicating that the United States approved and would support the League's policy.—Reuters.

INDIAN GUARDS FINED.

TAMPERING WITH PASSPORT CERTIFICATES.

UNUSUAL CASE.

Although no motive other than a desire to save themselves trouble was alleged against two Indian guards who were stated to have tampered with certain passport certificates, Mr. L. H. V. Booth (Assistant Director of Criminal Investigation), applied before Mr. Wynne Jones, at the Central Police Court this morning, for the imposition of a substantial fine on the two men who were charged with tampering in Hongkong without valid passports.

Mr. (Hsin-shing) Lo (instructed by Mr. J. M. Hall) appeared for the two men and in entering a plea of guilty drew his Worship's attention to Schedule 1 of the Passports Ordinance, which reads: "No person shall enter the Colony unless he has in his possession and brings with him into the Colony a valid passport: Provided that no person shall be convicted of an offence against this regulation if he proves that he had in his possession and brought with him into the Colony some other official document establishing his nationality and identity and subsequently approved by the Captain Superintendent of Police."

Identity Clear.

Mr. Lo said that the defence was complete if, and when the defendants could establish their identity and the fact that they had been in Hongkong before. He just pointed that out to his Worship in extenuation of the offence. There was evidence of their nationality and also of their identity, and the fact that they had been employed as guards immediately upon their return showed to a certain extent that the papers which they had were approved by the police.

Furthermore, they had been in the Colony for many years, he thought six or seven. They had behaved themselves well and he understood, the Inspector of guards would speak highly of them. He (Mr. Lo) thought it was one of those cases where his Worship should merely convict and exercise his prerogative and not expel them from the Colony. They were a good distance from their native land, where they had families to keep, and it would be a great hardship if they were not allowed to remain in the Colony.

Permits Issued.

Mr. Booth said the defendants joined the guards in 1925. Both of them had good records and in June, 1931, they both resigned. They had no passports at that time and as the police insisted on everybody having a passport and knowing that it was difficult to secure a passport in India the two defendants, when they left, were issued with permits. If they ever went back to India, the permit stated that the police had no objection to their returning to Hongkong provided they obtained a passport in India from the authorities there.

The defendants left Hongkong on board the Santhia on June 17, 1931. Mr. Booth heard nothing more of the men until he received a letter from the Commissioner of Police in Calcutta dated February 10 and received at the beginning of March. Attached to the letter were the two permits issued to the defendants by the Hongkong police. His Worship would notice that the proviso in the one case had been X-ed out with a typewriter and in the other case it had been erased. The permits were impounded by the Calcutta Police and sent to Hongkong. Having received the letter and the two permits, enquiries were made as to where the defendants were and it was discovered that they had, in fact, returned to the Colony, although it was not known how as they did not have passports. They had returned to the Colony and had been taken back again in the Guards Department. The Guards Department, continued Mr. Booth, was not at the Police Headquarters, but at the No. 7 Police Station.

Serious Offence.

In view of the fact that the police had issued the defendants with the permits, which distinctly stated that they must obtain a passport before leaving India, and in view of the fact that the permits had been tampered with, the police took a serious view of the case from the fact that they had deliberately dodged the regulations and ordinance. They had committed a more serious offence in altering the documents, but the police were prepared to overlook that as the defendants were not trying to obtain any money or anything like that, but merely to get to Hongkong without the trouble of obtaining passports.

So far as the police were concerned, he (Mr. Booth) was not asking for an expulsion order because the defendants had been in Hongkong before, but he was asking for a substantial fine, because, it must be agreed, the permits were issued with the intention of helping Indians to obtain passports. It was, in fact, a serious offence to tamper with the permits, and might amount to forgery.

His Worship:—It does amount to forgery.

Mr. Booth:—It does actually.

In reply to his Worship, Mr. Booth remarked that had the defendants applied for passports from the Indian authorities, they would have been given them.

Mr. Lo:—I think Mr. Booth ought to know that it is very difficult for them to obtain passports.

His Worship:—It may be difficult, but we are doing our best to help them by giving them these documents, but they have tampered with them.

Flagrant Forgery.

Mr. Lo:—They were obviously wrong.

His Worship:—They were actually fools.

Mr. Booth agreed that there was no motive except to save themselves trouble. It was a very ignorant thing to have done. It was a flagrant forgery. He was asking for a substantial fine as a deterrent. The police did not want permits mutilated.

His Worship imposed a fine of $50 each and was informed by Mr. Booth that the defendants would not lose their present jobs as guards.

This picture shows the side of the Chuen Chow looming up in the foreground, close to the stern of the distressed Venesia, taking off her passengers. The photo also gives an impression of the fog, nothing being visible a short range from the two ships.

SHANGHAI WAR LOSSES.

CHINESE OFFICIAL FIGURES.

Official Chinese casualty figures have now been published revealing that 9,000 officers and men were killed or wounded between January 28 and March 3 in the fighting with the Japanese forces around Shanghai.

In addition, 500 Chinese coolies were killed.

A majority of the casualties resulted from air bombs and artillery shells.

The official Chinese military statement said that the 88th Division, comprising natives of Chekiang and Kiangsu provinces, lost one-third of its total strength.

The Chinese figures were not as detailed as Japanese casualty figures. The latter, translated on the same basis as above, reported 2,416 army and navy personnel killed or wounded, and 59 civilians killed or wounded.

NEW CRUISER DUE TO-DAY.

SERIOUS EXPLOSION RECALLED.

To relieve H.M.S. Berwick on the China squadron, H.M.S. Devonshire is due to reach Hongkong at 6 p.m. to-day. The Berwick, which left last week for Home, is to be refitted and recommissioned, and is due to return in about six months.

In addition to bringing the usual personnel of naval officers, men and marines, the Devonshire has on board relief crews for H.M.S. Moth and H.M.S. Seawolf. The men to be relieved on those vessels are to be transferred to England of H.M.S. Vindictive.

The Devonshire, which is of the same class as the other cruisers on the China fleet, is the vessel on which a serious explosion occurred about two years ago, when one of the turrets exploded, killing several men.

GERMAN ELECTION.

three hundred and ninety votes recorded in this village, Hitler obtained 228 and Hindenburg 167.

At 10.30 p.m. Hindenburg had steadily advanced on the pre-occupied position and at that time held at absolute majority, the votes recorded being:

Hindenburg	9,559,748
Hitler	5,648,056
Thaelmann	2,561,268
Duesterburg	1,190,783
Winter	53,624

COLOGNE TENSION.

Excitement is running high in Cologne, and there have been sporadic disturbances at various centres. Serious trouble is not expected, at least until the result is known. Meanwhile an anxious atmosphere prevails in the streets, Nazis and Communists flitting from shadow to shadow, furtively eyeing each other and ready for any eventuality.

When three-quarters of the votes had been counted, President Hindenburg still had an absolute majority of 220,000, the figures being:

Hindenburg	14,358,557
Hitler	8,293,003
Thaelmann	3,781,580
Duesterburg	1,717,199
Winter	83,795

EX-ROYAL VOTES.

The members of the ex-Royal Family living at Potsdam voted at an early hour. The ex-Crown Prince is believed to have cast his vote for Hitler and this is taken for granted in the case of the ex-Prince August Wilhelm, who is a member of the Nazi Party.

When a million votes remained to be counted, Hindenburg had dropped back from his former dominant position, being a shade behind an absolute majority, with the odds against his getting in without the necessity for a further ballot.

The figures were:

Hindenburg	13,094,535
Hitler	10,835,093
Thaelmann	4,746,195
Duesterburg	2,473,999
Winter	103,828

PRAYERS IN COLOGNE.

Many thousand Catholics in Cologne prayed all night long for the success of the Protestant, President Hindenburg (despite the fact that Herr Hitler is a Catholic).

The unprecedented rush of women to the poll was the outstanding feature of the elections in the Rhineland. Thousands of Catholics made a pilgrimage to the ancient chapel on the outskirts of Cologne at midnight, and knelt for three hours in the bitter cold, praying for Hindenburg's success.

Twenty thousand pilgrims attended a special Mass at the Cathedral between two and three o'clock in the morning, of whom eleven thousand received Communion at fifteen special altars.

The churches in the Rhineland were also thronged all day long.

WOMEN POLL HEAVILY.

Women began to flock to the polls as soon as the booths opened. The great majority are believed to have voted for Hindenburg.

An 84-year-old nun left the cloisters for the first time in her life in order to vote.

"How can I lie in bed and let Hitler in?" declared another woman, who, though very ill, despite the orders of her husband and her doctor, rose from a sick bed to go to the polling station.

These are typical instances of the keenness of the women voters, of whom it is estimated that at least 90 per cent. went to the polls.

BETTER STREETS FOR WUCHOW.

GOOD WORK NOW IN HAND.

Wuchow, Mar. 10.

The Wuchow Municipal government is continuing its progressive plan of improving the streets of the city. One important street is now in the process of being renovated, and a sewer laid.

It is expected that in the near future work will be started on the widening and levelling of Fu Hong Kaid. According to present plans the street will be widened and lowered 15 feet, in order that it will be on a level with the intersecting streets.

Fu Hong Kaid will then be one of Wuchow's leading thoroughfares, as it has situated on it the C. and M. A. Men's Bible School, a large primary school, as well as a large public building. —Our Own Correspondent.

is certain of a decisive victory in the second ballot, when only a bare majority will be needed.

Hindenburg's magnificent fight against the Bolshevik Nazi campaign has astonished even his most optimistic supporters, especially in Bavaria, where the veteran Field-Marshal swept the board, obtaining from two to three times as many votes as the confident Hitlerites.

Hindenburg also crushingly triumphed in Berlin, but the Nazis gained votes all over the rest of Germany as compared with the 1930 election. —Reuters.

KOWLOON SAVE A POINT.

SNAP GOAL IN LAST FIVE MINUTES.

A KEEN STRUGGLE.

Kowloon 1 S.W.B. 1
A snap goal five minutes from the end enabled Kowloon to share points with the South Wales Borderers in Saturday's only local league game, the result of which might have been in favour of the soldiers had they possessed a forward with any shooting ability. A remarkably keen contest for an end-of-the-season encounter, it fluctuated considerably. In the first twenty minutes there was a snap about Kowloon's work which boded no good for the Borderers and on more than one occasion Johnson was a trifle fortunate to get the ball away. Then the Borderers had a spell in the ascendancy and when Jones netted off McKelvie, the goal was well earned. Kowloon should have equalised within a minute, but Gillott's final shot after breaking clean through struck the cross-bar. The Borderers vainly strove to increase their advantage in the second half and Kowloon, staging a great rally, equalised, Eastman cutting through on the right to present Gillott with the easiest possible scoring chance. Another glorious opportunity fell the way of Hedley soon afterwards but he mis-kicked. Kowloon's three reserve players rose to the occasion and but for an unfortunate accident to Hill, who twisted his knee at the beginning and was a passenger for the remainder of the game, it is possible that the home team would have completed the "double" against their visitors. White and Martin played dashing football at back and the halves were sturdy in defence. The four forwards were somewhat ragged but nevertheless dangerous.

Underwood was outstanding for the Borderers, his fine constructive work more than compensating for his occasional lapsing against Kowloon's liveliest wing. Duncan did well on the extreme left until the second half when most of his centres went behind, but the right wing failed to reveal anything like its normal form.

Charity Match.
A Charity game arranged by the St. John Ambulance Brigade towards the Shanghai relief fund was played on the South China ground at Caroline Hill, yesterday, the Chinese team beating a selected Army XI by four goals to one.

The ground was practically under water and the players found it difficult to keep their feet, while ball control was out of the question. H.E. Major General J. W. Sandilands, the G.O.C., was present throughout the game. Owing no doubt to the wet weather, the attendance was very poor.

The teams lined out as under:
Chinese.—Chan Sik-pui; Tam Kon-pak and Wong Ping; Leung Wing-chai, Wong Mee-shun and Leung Sui-chai; Cheng Shui-hong, Chui Kwok-luen, Lee Wo-tong, Suen Kum-shun and Ip Pak-wah.
The Army.—Johnson; Mullane and Morrison; MacGlashan, Channings and Underwood; Harris, Davies, Gillott, Podmore and Duncan.

RUGBY NOVELTY CATCHES ON.

THE SEVEN-A-SIDE TOURNAMENT.

With such encouraging results coming from the first seven-a-side Rugby tournament staged in the Colony, it is quite possible that rugger enthusiasts can look forward to similar competitions as an annual feature. The final games, staged at the Club ground on Saturday, were as interesting as the preliminary matches during the week, and the big crowd went away after an afternoon's most entertaining sport. His Excellency the Governor, Sir William Peel, and H.E. Major-Gen. Sandilands were among those present.

Seven games were played during the afternoon, providing the spectators with the speed and thrills that seven-a-side games gives. The pace was at the top from the start, and in running out winners, the Club's senior team gave an illustration that survival of the fittest. They took part in three of the matches, and played the last two in succession with only a short interval between. That the honours went in the right direction cannot be questioned as throughout the tournament the Club had shown their superior knowledge of the game and stamina.

Full results of the afternoon's play were:—

CRICKET LEAGUE.

INDIANS RETAIN SENIOR CHAMPIONSHIP.

The Indian C.C., whose match with the Kowloon C.C. on Saturday was postponed on account of the death of Mrs. W. F. Fincher, have become champions of the Senior Cricket League by virtue of the defeat of the Craigenower C.C. by the University by a margin of 25 runs.

The match was played at Pokfulam, the undergraduates' batting first. With the exception of A. Rodrigues, who scored 34, and F. R. Zimmer, who contributed 32, the batsmen failed to show signs of being able to make runs. R. Lee bowled extremely well and took six wickets for 27 runs of a total of 120.

S. V. Gittins and W. Paterson gave the visitors a good start, but the other batsmen were unable to score the necessary runs for victory. D. J. N. Anderson captured six of the wickets for 25 runs.

SECOND DIVISION.

A seventh wicket stand which produced 98 runs was responsible for the defeat of the Police R.C. in their match against the Royal Engineers and Royal Corps of Signals at Sookumpoo, the visitors losing by 70 runs.

FRIENDLY MATCHES.

A scratch team captained by J. E. Richardson beat the Hongkong Cricket Club in a friendly match by one wicket. The home team knocked up 190 runs by consistent scoring by their batsmen, H. P. Edwards with 32 being the highest scorer. Richardson scored 52 and R. M. Wood 63 towards a total of 190.

Craigenower v. Hongkong C.C.
The second teams of the Craigenower C.C. and the Hongkong C.C. met at Happy Valley, the visitors winning by two wickets. L. Kilbee scored 103 for the Hongkong C.C. before retiring whilst E. Souza was the chief contributor for the hosts with 67. The Happy Valley team knocked up a total of 154 runs, the visitors replying with 101.

INTERNATIONAL RUGBY MATCH RESULT.

Cardiff, Mar. 13.
 In the International rugby match played here yesterday before 50,000 spectators, Ireland checked Wales in her bid to clinch the International championship, winning a terrific match by twelve points to ten. Reiter.

By her victory Ireland share the top position with Wales, with England providing a probable triple tie by winning their last match against Scotland at Twickenham next Saturday, in the final game of the season. The positions of the four countries are as follows:

	Points
Wales	3 2 - 1 23 17 4
Ireland	3 2 - 1 40 29 4
England	2 1 - 1 16 20 2
Scotland	2 - 2 8 20 -

HOME FOOTBALL.

ARSENAL AND NEWCASTLE TO CONTEST FINAL.

London, Mar. 13.
 The semi-final matches in the English Football Cup competition were watched by 87,000 people. A dramatic last minute goal off the post by "Boy" Bastin took the Arsenal into the final. Manchester City, their opponents, held their own in a gruelling game. Newcastle, after two early goals, were always superior to Chelsea.

A goal in the first minute of the match won Sunderland their game against Middlesbrough in the First Division of the League. By heading Mansfield by seven yards to one, Reading are making a bold bid to regain their lost position in the Second Division. They have not lost a single match since January 2.—Our Own Correspondent.

THREE KINDS OF LOVE.

to return such hospitality. Grand and I considered that, dear, you may be sure. We discussed it, alone together, after we left the Carmichaels. Grand says that with his affairs as they are at this time he feels reasonably certain—that within a year we shall have a country home of our own—or, at best, two years; those places we are informed take rather long in building—in which we can return this hospitality and many others.

"We plan to do as the Carmichaels are doing. We intend to fill our home with our friends throughout the season. And if you darlings are married by that time, as I hope you may be, it will be the place where you and yours will spend your vacations—always Grand rather favours the mountains for a location. But we love the sea. It will be a difficult decision: the mountains or the sea. Though, as Grand says, both are possible: a few months in the mountains; a few months by the sea. We need more playtime. All of us. And Grand and I hope and intend to go to that we have them: long, lovely, happy playtimes together, and soon now. You darlings will, of course, marry. Grand was saying this morning, in that connexion, that he hoped shortly, very shortly, to be able to help both of your sweethearts in a material way."

Ann was busy with her ironing. Cecily was busy with her shelves. Rosalie talked on for a while before she pulled herself out of her chair and went away, moving slowly through her perfumed vicinity. (To be Continued.)

YOUNG ATHLETES.

CENTRAL BRITISH SCHOOL ANNUAL SPORTS.

The annual athletic meeting of the Central British School was held at King's Park on Saturday afternoon, and, notwithstanding the inclement weather, the students all showed great keenness in the various events which were decided.

J. Gecks met with outstanding success, carrying off the Victor Loderum Cup with a total of 40 points, while the Victor Loderum Cup went to Miss D. Raven with 10 points whilst her sister, Miss W. Raven secured 18 points during the afternoon.

Mr. D. M. Richards, acting headmaster, in the absence of Mr. G. Franklin, Nightingale, expressed thanks on behalf of the school authorities to the organisers of the meeting, mentioning particularly Mr. R. M. Dyer, of the Kowloon Dock, who, as in previous years, had taken much trouble in arranging the grounds. The speaker also thanked Mr. Jenner and Mr. T. R. Howell, the sports master, for the work they had done, the South China A.A. for the loan of hurdles, the Club de Recreio for the loan of tables and chairs, the Kowloon United Church for the loan of a big kettle, and the China Light and Power Company for allowing the students free drinks at their Club House.

Mr. A. E. Wood, who presented the prizes, commented on the keenness shown by the competitors.

M. BRIAND LAID TO REST.IMPRESSIVE FUNERAL AT PASSY CEMETERY.

Paris, Mar. 12. Amid most impressive funeral pomp the body of the late M. Briand was taken to-day to the cemetery at Passy, from whence, later, it will be transferred for burial to M. Briand's home at Cocherel, Normandy.—Reuter.

There has never been a more impressive national funeral to France's heroes.

The first step was the blessing of the Church on the man who had been excommunicated for having brought about the separation of the Church from the State, but who lived to be hailed as the world's peacemaker.

This solemn act was performed by Cardinal Verdier, Archbishop of Paris, in the Court Room of the Quai d'Orsay, where the black draped coffin lay at the spot where M. Briand had met M. Doumer and Government Ministers were among the few present.

The coffin was then carried out to the court yard, where M. Tardieu delivered an eloquent oration.

Military Display.

In the cortege the hearse was borne by eight ex-soldiers. The Republican Guards, three hundred ex-soldiers and a military band joined in the imposing procession which included M. Doumer, the Ambassador (Lord Tyrrell) representing King George, and Baron Sato representing the Emperor of Japan, a galaxy of

A BOATMAN SHOT.PIRATES' ATTACK ON CARGO JUNK.

A sudden attack by pirates on a cargo junk which was anchored in Chinese waters during the fog on Friday night has been reported to the Police by the owner and master, Mok Kwai-mul, who intimated that one of his foks, Choi Kau, who was climbing up a ladder from the hold to the deck, was wounded in the head, though not seriously.

The junk, of 655 piculs capacity, left Shamshup on Thursday evening for Lantau with a cargo of sand and a crew of 11 males, one female and a child. After passing Chik Lap Kok at about 9 p.m. on Friday, fog was encountered in Chinese waters and the craft was anchored, the crew waiting for the night.

One of the foks, Choi Kau, went up the ladder from the hold and, on reaching the deck, two rifle shots were fired at the junk. The man was struck in the head and fell back into the hold. The crew then shut themselves in their quarters and, on emerging about half an hour later, found that two anchors, valued at $15, and two jackets, had been stolen from the deck.

None of the crew saw any of the pirates of boats. The junk left at 11 p.m. and returned to Hongkong, the wounded man being taken to the Kowloon Hospital on arrival.

Foreign Ministers, including Sir John Simon, an influential League Delegation, and M. Briand's old friend Sir Austen Chamberlain.

Enormous crowds watched the passing of the procession, which wended its way past the Unknown Warrior's Grave at the Arc de Triomphe to the quiet little cemetery at Passy.—Reuter.

MATCH KING'S DEATH.SUICIDE IN PARIS HOTEL ROOM.*FINANCE TANGLE.

Paris, Mar. 13.

Mr. Ivar Kreuger, the Swedish "Match King," has committed suicide following a nervous breakdown resulting from overwork. He had only yesterday arrived from America.

He was reported to be due to have a business meeting this morning with English, French and American bankers but did not put in an appearance, hence the discovery of the suicide.—Reuter.

An Investigation.

Stockholm, Mar. 13.

The Swedish Match Company announced that an investigation of the Kreuger Companies is to be begun.

Regarding Mr. Kreuger's suicide a special session of Parliament on Sunday night will pass a Bill providing for an immediate moratorium for private concerns.—Reuter.

Shot Through Heart.

London, Mar. 13.

Not since the disappearance of the Belgian millionaire, Mr. Lowenstein, in 1928, has such a thunderstruck dismay been occasioned by the death of an individual as by that of the modern financial czar, Mr. Kreuger.

The event even takes prominence over the German elections in the English Sunday newspapers, which consider it to be a Swedish national calamity which is likely to have serious repercussions in the world of finance.

Mr. Kreuger, fully dressed, was found with a bullet in his heart in his Paris flat, and with a revolver beside the bed.

It is alleged that letters were found wherein he confessed his weakness of life and financial difficulties. Added drama is given by the fact that nearly 50,000 Kreuger and Toll shares were hung on the Wall Street market yesterday.

According to the Sunday Express the Kreuger Companies shares have fallen $113,000,000 since 1930.—Reuter.

Details of Drama.

Paris, Mar. 13.

The final act in the drama of Mr. Kreuger's death opened on March 11, when Mr. Kreuger arrived in Paris and breakfasted with Mr. Lutterlin, the vice-chairman of the Swedish Match Company, who arrived from Stockholm on March 10. They decided to call a meeting at the hotel yesterday morning of leading shareholders in the concerns in which they were interested, and other international and industrial figures.

Mr. Lutterlin called at Mr. Kreuger's flat at ten o'clock yesterday morning, but Mr. Kreuger had not risen and told Mr. Lutterlin "I'll see you later."

Subsequently Mr. Kreuger's secretary, Mlle. Bokman, brought a memorandum to him, but he sent her away.

When Mr. Kreuger did not appear at the meeting Mr. Lutterlin

A COMMON AIM.SIR JOHN SIMON SPEAKS WITH M. TARDIEU.

London, Mar. 12.

The Foreign Secretary, Sir John Simon, who left Geneva last night, arrived this morning in Paris and was met by the President Du Clos, M. Andre Tardieu, with whom he was in conference from ten o'clock until noon.

A communique issued by the Foreign Office says: "Sir John Simon who wished to see Paris to-day to be present in person at M. Briand's funeral, repeated to M. Tardieu the expression of deep emotion caused to the Government and people of the British Empire by the death of the eminent statesman."

M. Tardieu thanked him deeply. The two, who had not had an opportunity of meeting since 29th February, talked of what has happened at Geneva since then. They expressed satisfaction at the happy conclusion of League of Nations labours by the unanimous approval of the final resolution, and they further reviewed the question which the disarmament conference will discuss next week.

Sir John Simon and M. Tardieu then considered the various programmes with which their respective Governments are at present faced. In particular they examined the economic situation of Central Europe. They found themselves in agreement that in this as in all other matters co-operation between France and Great Britain should extend over a wide field with the twofold object of appeasing political rivalries and expediting economic reconstruction in Europe.—Reuter.

became anxious, and dashed off to the flat, where he found Mr. Kreuger lying in bed dead, shot through the heart, an automatic pistol in his hand. Three letters were on the table, one addressed to Mr. Lutterlin stating an intention to commit suicide.

Worried Over Loans.

As regards a rumour that France owed Mr. Kreuger 100,000,000 francs lent her in connexion with the match monopoly, the Matin learns that France repaid the money months ago, but Mr. Kreuger was worried with regard to loans to certain countries, which had declared moratoriums therefore he contracted loans with British and American bankers.

A New York message says that before news of the death of Mr. Kreuger, 165,000 Kreuger and Toll shares were sold in Wall Street yesterday, making a total of 422,500 in a week, the price having declined only a fraction.

According to the New York Times, 2,500,000 participating debentures in the Kreuger and Toll were acquired by Americans in twelve months.—Reuter.

Stockholm Statement.

Stockholm, Mar. 13.

The Swedish Prime Minister Mr. Ekman, in an interview stated that a Government bill giving a moratorium to private concerns is intended to allow companies in the Kreuger group to strengthen their resources if necessary, in view of the possibility of claims on them.

The Inspector of Swedish banks emphasised that the position of the

INVALUABLE AID IN COLLISION.

With extensive damage as a consequence of her collision with the s.s. Sui Tai, the Venezia is now at the 'Cosmopolitan' Dock, where she is being dry-docked for repair. It might be imagined, from her appearance, that she could hardly have remained afloat after the damage she received, but fortunately the bulkheads held.

Captain F. T. Fisher, the master of the Venezia, seen by a Telegraph representative this morning, expressed the highest admiration for the conduct of the first-class passengers after the mishap. Their behaviour and the assistance they rendered was, said the Captain, beyond all praise. They kept their heads, helped to get the boats clear, and generally assisted during a time of great anxiety. "They were a great help to me," said Captain Fisher, "and I should like to express my thanks for all they did."

A Suggestion.

Mr. G. H. Potts, of Messrs. Pott & Potts, writes as follows: "In my capacity of Chairman of the Marine Society, I think it is fitting that I should make an appeal to all those passengers who were on board the Venezia on the 12th inst., when the collision took place between that ship and the s.s. Sui Tai, for some laudible recognition of the conduct of the officers of the s.s. Chun Chow who came to our assistance, stood by us during a most trying and dangerous time, and subsequently took us on board and attended to us the hospitality of their ship."

Any passengers who would like to identify themselves with a suitable recognition of the occasion please send their subscriptions to me.

MARATHON POSTPONED.

The Kowloon Marathon, fixed for this afternoon, has been postponed to a date to be announced later.

Playing golf at Happy Valley yesterday, Mr. A. C. Ellis lost his ball under unusual circumstances. A large kite hawk swooped down and carried it away!

The following message has been received from the Admiralty:—It has been decided as announced by the First Lord in the House of Commons that when the Atlantic Fleet passes Ushant on its return home from the present spring cruise its name is to be changed to Home Fleet. The change will actually take effect from 1200 12th March.

This desolate trench at Kiangwan, with an abandoned rifle across it, and dozens of emptied machine gun ammunition belts, tells its own story of the fight and retreat of the Chinese at this point.

OLD HAND SENT TO GAOL.

PICKED MAN'S POCKET ON FERRY.

A particularly smart arrest of a pickpocket was related at the Kowloon Magistracy before Mr. Fraser this morning, when a man named Kwok Ping-kwan was charged with theft of a gold bangle and $1 in money from Cheng Ho-fat on the Yau-matli Ferry Wharf yesterday.

Inspector Clark, who prosecuted, stated that the complainant was on the Yau-matli Ferry, travelling from Hongkong to Yau-matli. He had in his pocket a child's gold bangle, valued at $10, and $1 in silver, but on the wharf, he found that his pocket had been picked. He shouted out to this effect, and a Chinese Inspector of the wharf, who knew defendant, suspected him, his suspicion being confirmed when he saw some red paper sticking out of the defendant's pocket. He informed the police and the articles were found in defendant's pocket.

His Worship remarked that the defendant had a very bad record of thefts dating back to 1922. Continuing, his Worship said, "Your last conviction was in 1929. What have you been doing for the last three years?"

Defendant.—I have been selling opium.
Sentence of 12 months' hard labour was passed, his Worship

BONUS AGAIN BEING PAID.

We are officially informed that the General Managers and Consulting Committee of the Hongkong Fire Insurance Co., Ltd., will recommend, at the forthcoming meeting of shareholders to be held on the 30th instant, the payment on account of the year 1930 of a dividend of $50 together with an "Exchange" bonus of $5 per share absorbing $440,000, to pass the balance of $175,420.34 to the credit of Reinsurance Fund and to carry forward $524,295.67 in respect of the year 1931.

They again wish it to be understood, however, that the continuance or otherwise of the bonus, in the whole or in part, will depend entirely on exchange and it should not be viewed in any other light than that of a temporary measure.

Mr. E. C. Pearce, a warder of the Hongkong prison staff, who was reported missing from the Government Civil Hospital, has returned. He had been on a trip to Canton.

Further ordering defendant to be under police supervision for two years at the expiration of his term of imprisonment.
